The accompanying photographs give some idea of the size and facilities of the new Scioto Ordnance Plant cafeteria which opened Monday. Some of the key personnel are also pictured.

The dining room is a huge expanse of floor space covered with nicely finished tables and chairs. Customers come in the main entrance, just a short distance to the left of the area shown in the photograph, and walk between rails to the serving counter at the right. Facilities are provided to keep two lines of customers going at one time, one line moving in each direction from the center of the counter.

The serving area is completely partitioned from the kitchen and its various departments which include a bake shop, meat shop, a veritable grocery store. Dishwashing equipment is automatic.

In the bake shop scene above Mrs. Burkard is shown making rolls while the head of the shop, Mr. Lilley, formerly of the Ford Inn at Dearborn, Mich. is taking a pie out of one of the electric ovens. There are two batteries of electric ovens. The equipment throughout has been described as comparable to that found in the finest hotels and restaurants.

Mr. Haines, the chef, is a former chef of a Des Moines, Ia., hotel.

The cafeteria is operated by the Hawkeye Catering Co. of Burlington, Ia., with Mr. Mueller, one of three partners of the concern, serving as manager at the Scioto Ordnance Plant. It is under the supervison of the U. S. Rubber Co. which is operating the plant for the war department, which has as its principal representative here Major Harold F. Ogden, commanding officer of the plant.

GAS RATIONING FOES CONFER

Group To Decide Whether To Give Up or Continue Fight.

BULLETIN

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27 — Farmers and war workers will be allowed necessary gasoline to meet their needs, Rubber Administrator William M. Jeffers told senate investigators today in reiterating that immediate nationwide rationing was "an absolute necessity."

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27 — Faced with a presidential order directing that nationwide gasoline rationing go into effect on Dec. 1 as scheduled, leaders of a congressional opposition bloc were confronted today with the alternative of either giving up or carrying the fight to the floor of congress.

They hurriedly called a meeting to decide whether to proceed with legislation that would stay rationing by statute for from 90 days to six months but privately they expressed belief that here was little they could do.

"A special senate war investigating committee, seeking to develop "the facts on both sides of the rationing issue," called Petroleum Coordinator Harold L. Ickes, Rubber Administrator William M. Jeffers, Price Administrator Leon Henderson and Transportation Director Joseph Eastman before it today.

The committee planned to go to Kansas City next week to hear mid-western mayors, civic officials, and representatives of oil companies.

Reds Drive To Knock Out 300,000 German Troops

Confused Fighting Swirls Across Wide Area as Russians Attempt To Close Trap on Invaders.

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, Nov. 27—Confused fighting swirled across the lifelines of Hitler's partially trapped Stalingrad siege armies today as latest battle reports indicated a fast-wheeling Soviet force was driving in from the west on the invaders' rear.

Aimed at annihilation of the estimated 300,000 survivors of axis legions that have clawed at Stalingrad for three months, the Russians' Volga-Don offensive surged into its ninth day with 115,600 enemy soldiers officially reported killed or captured outside the city and possibly 150,000 others wounded.

Dispatches said that in some places the Red offensive gained such momentum that fleeing Germans were frustrated in efforts to burn warplanes on fields overwhelmed too swiftly to permit takeoffs. Dozens of planes were reported captured undamaged.

Overnight, the Stalingrad garrison struck out hard, dislodging the Germans from four large blocks in the northern part and killing 950 in this and other clashes in the town, the midday communique said.

Advance In Stalingrad

Red troops extended their advance during the night northwest of Stalingrad and wiped out 1,000 foemen and captured much booty, the war bulletin also [illegible] sixty-six German tanks and [illegible] reported destroyed in another sector.

To the southwest, further successful offensive operations were reported with 600 killed.

(The German radio acknowledged the Russians still were on the offensive around Stalingrad and also expanded on its earlier reports of a major Soviet drive in the Rzhev area 600 miles to the north. Broadcasts told of heavy fighting at Bely, 180 miles due west of Moscow, and said Red troops were operating "west of Toropets" which is about 240 miles northwest of Moscow and only 135 miles from the Latvian border.

(A later German broadcast reported Russian tank and infantry attacks in the Velikie Luki sector southwest of Toropets and only 100 miles from Latvia.

(Soviet communiques again made no mention of these operations which indicate that the Russians may be entering into a winter offensive much more extensive than the 1941-42 cold weather drive which threw the Germans back from the gates of Moscow.)

After listing seven towns captured in the Don bend, the special communique said, significantly:

"In this sector they (Red army soldiers) threw remaining enemy units on to the eastern banks of the River Don."

Russian Plan Revealed

This gave a picture of the Russians headed eastward in an advanced phase of a great circling movement aimed at pinning the besiegers into the 45-mile wide strip between the Don and the Volga and then driving them against the bayonets of the dogged Stalingrad garrison.

The fluid state of the lines west and northwest of Stalingrad and the lack of strategic details in the communiques made it impossible to say how near the Russians were to completing this trap but Russian reports indicated that they not only had cut the Germans' only two rail lines into the city but also had severed many, if not a large majority, of all the highway avenues of supply and escape.

But it seemed equally clear from the continued strength of the invaders within Stalingrad that the Germans had decided not to withdraw.

• • •

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts), Nov. 27 — The German high command reported today that all Russian attacks in the Volga and Don region had collapsed, but that strong Red army attacks were continuing on the central sector.

The war bulletin said a Soviet cavalry division was smashed on the Kalmyck steppes south of Stalingrad, a greater part of its manpower annihilated and hundreds of prisoners taken.

Russian attempts to cross the Neva river on the Leningrad front were declared frustrated with 22 of the Red army's boats capsized.

Fall at Home Fatal to Nine-Year-Old Boy at Farm Near Cardington.

Special to The Star

CARDINGTON, Nov. 27—Carl H. Miller, nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Miller of four miles west of Cardington just inside Marion county was fatally injured about 11 a. m. today when he fell on a pair of scissors while playing in his farm home.

In the house at the time of the accident was a brother, Robert, 8. The father, a state highway department employe, was at work and the mother was working in a nearby field.

The young brother ran from the home to tell the mother of the accident.

Dr. R. T. Morgan, Marion county coroner who was called to the farm home, said death resulted from a stab wound in the chest.

The body was removed to the H. H. Curl funeral home at Cardington.

JAPS HOLDING IN NEW GUINEA

Buna Force Strengthened by Reinforcements, Allied Headquarters Say.

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Nov. 27—Reinforced by strong marine units, Japanese troops crammed into the narrow Buna-Gona beachhead are holding their major positions in the face of daylong air assaults and steady but slightly abated pressure from allied ground forces.

Comparatively meager officials reports from the New Guinea front today showed little geographical change in the battle picture in the last 24 hours.

But a check on the Japanese dead confirmed earlier indications that the enemy, despite severe blows by Gen. Douglas MacArthur's aerial squadrons, had succeeded in bringing reinforcements into action.

Since the night of Nov. 19 United States and Australian bombers have sunk a Japanese cruiser, four destroyers and two landing boats, have heavily hit and probably sunk a fifth destroyer and damaged another moving toward the 12-mile shoreline still in Lieut. Gen. Tomitaro Horii's hands.

All Vessels In Great Navy Base Sent To Bottom

By The Associated Press

Defiant French seamen were reported to have scuttled the entire French naval squadron of 62 warships at Toulon today as Adolf Hitler, ruthlessly crushing the last of France's free homeland under the Nazi boot, seized the big French naval base after overcoming resistance.

A Vichy broadcast said German troops marched into Toulon at 4 o'clock this morning.

"By orders of Admiral De La Borde, vessels of the French squadron at Toulon scuttled themselves," the broadcast said.

"By 10 a. m., there was not one vessel afloat."

The German high command said merely that "part" of the squadron had been sent to the bottom by their French crews as axis troops moved in to thwart an alleged plot for the fleet to escape to the allies.

The Germans acknowledged officially that it took them hours to wrest firm control of the port.

The Vichy radio said the French had blown up their coastal batteries at Toulon after Nazi bombers had dropped explosive bombs on the harbor's fortifications and Nazi armored columns had reached the main harbor. The Navy arsenal, munition dumps, and oil tanks were also to have been blown up.

With German bombers overhead, it said, French anti-aircraft batteries opened fire trying to protect some ships attempting to leave their moorings.

Elimination of the fleet not only would remove the possibility of its use by the axis but the scuttled hulks would make Toulon harbor virtually useless.

London sources observed that the scuttlings, together with Vichy's decision to strip Darlan of his citizenship, could be expected to put Admiral Darlan in a better light with those who have been criticizing him as an opportunist and opposing any help from him in North Africa.

Thus Hitler trampled another solemn pledge into the dust, putting all France in the same category of conquered nations as Norway, Belgium, Holland, Greece and Yugoslavia.

The last thin veil of "collaboration" between Vichy and Berlin was ripped aside to the crackle of gunfire by stout-hearted French troops who fought briefly but long enough to permit the scuttling of French warships in Toulon harbor.

Sixty-two French warships, including three battleships, are based at Toulon.

The German high command said Hitler and Premier Mussolini ordered the occupation "to prevent the French Mediterranean fleet from putting to sea as planned" and that in addition "unsure contingents of the French army" would be demobilized.

A Vichy broadcast said Hitler had ordered the immediate demobilization of all French naval

Toulon Harbor Mass of Wreckage As Ships Go Down

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Nov. 27—The great naval harbor of Toulon, where, according to Vichy accounts, the French fleet was scuttled, is a "scene of utter desolation with all the magnificent ships of the French navy lying on their sides and with dense clouds of smoke rising from them," said a Vichy broadcast today that was recorded by Reuters news agency.

(The Germans said part of the fleet was scuttled.)

"The maritime prefecture, the post office and the town hall fell quickly into the hands of the German troops who swarmed in through the windows from ladders placed against the walls," said the radio account.

"A column of German tanks and armored cars entered the arsenal by the Castigneau gate and dashed full speed to the Milhaud docks, where the battleship Strasbourg was moored.

Rush Toward Ships

"Another German motorized column brought soldiers armed with tommy guns to the Vauban basin, in which the battleship Dunkerque was undergoing repairs and in front of which the cruisers Foch, Algerie, Duquesne and Jean De Vienne, together with a number of light cruisers, destroyers and corvettes were moored.

"A sudden explosion rent the air. It came from the Strasbourg, which had just scuttled itself. Explosion after explosion followed as all other ships in the harbor and the French coastal batteries blew themselves up.

"On some ships preparations for the scuttling were not quite ready so the sailors opened fire on the Germans to keep them off

Allied Spearheads Drive Within 15 Miles of Tunis

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Nov. 27 — Allied spearheads were reported today to have lanced to a point 15 miles from Tunis and to have clashed with axis forces at Mateur, a communications junction 25 miles south of Bizerte, in an effort to drive a wedge between the fortified capital and the naval base at Tunisia.

Both developments were announced in a Berlin radio broadcast.

The position of the task force striking at Tunis was not stated, but an allied communique earlier announced that British first army troops, striking northeastward, had captured Medjez El Bab, 30 miles southwest of Tunis, over stiff resistance and were "advancing successfully."

Mateur lies athwart the railway line and one of two highways between Tunis and Bizerte, in which Hitler has concentrated the majority of German and Italian troops in Tunisia. London commentators estimate their numbers at 20,000. It is 40 miles northwest of the capital. Eastward, toward the Mediterranean coast, runs another highway between Bizerte and Tunis.

Rainy Season Starts

The [illegible] and air ground engagements this far fought amid the first showers of the Tunisian rainy [illegible] had been on a small scale. It reported the French forces under Gen. Henri Honore Giraud were advancing rapidly eastward in cooperation with the British and American program.

The Berlin radio declared the German air force had gained air superiority over Tunisia "with lightning speed" but offered no statistics in support of the statement.

"Naval and land forces have been able to pour men and materials into the country," the Nazi agency said. "Deployment of axis forces is still in progress and consequently fighting is restricted to a few minor brushes between mobile units."

The need for disciplined speed was indicted by the German and Italian troop movements from Libya and Sicily which, despite allied air and sea attacks, were shortening the manpower odds.

Authoritative London quarters estimated the Germans now had about 20,000 men in northern Tunisia, several thousand more ready to board transports in Sicily and between 3,000 and 4,000 transferred from [illegible] Libya to man coastal defenses against the British, French and American [illegible]

Rainfall Hurts Soybeans

Too Much of It in Recent Weeks Raises New Problems; 25 Per Cent of Crop Still Out.

The unusually persistent rainfall of the last several weeks has created an additional problem for Marion county farmers harvesting soybeans.

Already flooded with a record-breaking crop that was overflowing all available storage space farmers now face a new complication—that of getting their beans dry enough for proper storage.

Walter Flumerfelt, manager of Old Fort Mills Marion soybean processing plant, commented today on the many phases of the moisture problem faced by farmers, and urged them to make sure the moisture content is low enough before storing their beans.

Oil Content

Beans, he explained, contain between 18 and 19 per cent oil. Filling a bin with beans that have too much moisture, above 11½ to 15 per cent, creates a condition similar to that of a pile of oily rags which may develop spontaneous combustion. The beans won't burn, but they can get scorched brown or even black.

One of the difficulties is that this heat spoilage starts at the floor of the storage bin, and throughout its development the beans on top look all right. It's when the farmer starts to remove the beans and gets to those a foot or more from the top layer that he discovers—too late—what has happened.

Ordinarily, the soybean harvest would be completed by this time. However, rainfall has delayed the harvest and it is estimated that between 25 and 30 per cent of the Ohio crop is still not harvested.

Usual Harvesting Plan

Normally, beans are harvested when their moisture content is around 12 to 12½ per cent. Farmers get beans that have the right moisture content largely by selecting the right time to harvest them. However, the frequent rainfall of recent weeks has kept the ripening process from reducing the moisture content of unharvested beans to its normal level. Consequently, farmers face the problem now of getting in beans that have a high moisture content.

Mr. Flumerfelt made three definite suggestions to farmers thus affected:

(1) Take a sample of beans to a grain dealer or to the processing plant for a moisture content test. This will show whether the beans are dry enough to permit safe storage.

(2) If the test shows the beans are above 11 to 15 per cent moisture, arrangements should be made for their care through an elevator equipped with a drier or for shipping them immediately to avoid spoilage.

(3) If a farmer thinks his beans are dry enough but wants to take an added precaution, it will be helpful to turn the beans a few times in shallow bins. However, comparatively few farmers have the facilities for this.

Beware Coughs Following Flu

After the flu is over and gone, the cough that follows may develop into chronic bronchitis if neglected. Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

UPPER SANDUSKY, Nov. 27 - The first hunting accident of the season in Wyandot county was recorded when Wilbur Hensel, 18, of near Marseilles, and former basketball star for the Bulldogs, sustained a slight flesh wound under his right arm.

An accidental discharge from the gun carried by a companion tore through his clothing and peppered Hensel's flesh. Some pellets of shot were found lodged in his back. He was treated in a Kenton hospital.

Hygiene in War

THE PRESENT emergency has caused a dislocation in American life and social customs so profound and so far-reaching as to cause a great deal of genuine alarm among thinkers. All the more so because it is feared that habits will be formed in great groups of our population which will be continued long after the war is over.

For instance, a mother and father are both employed in war industry and both work on a night shift. They leave one or two or more small children alone in a house or an apartment or a room by themselves. The mother and father come home tired and often a child only four or five years of age is left to shift for itself for breakfast. Social service workers made an inspection of locked cars around a certain munitions works at night and found something like 25 babies all lying asleep in the back seats of cars.

It hardly needs anyone with technical training to point out that this is all wrong. If proper provision cannot be made for such children, one member of the family should give up work and stay home with them. In many cities the civic authorities have provided nurseries for these "war orphans."

My own institution has created a day nursery for the children of married nurses and social service workers who have had to return to duty on account of the drafting of the unmarried ones. There is no use winning the war if we lose all of our civilization and all of the next generation in the effort. Even if it slows up the war effort, the babies have to be taken care of.

Another similar problem is the child of grade school or high school age whose parents are both off working and who is given a key to the home. These are called in my community "The Door Key Kids." They get in the house or apartment in groups of mixed ages and sexes and plenty of things happen. This is the responsibility of the parents, together with the school authorities and also with the industrial plants—to see that the children of such an age are not given license which is beyond their powers of restraint to deal with.

The breakfast problem for the child, or children, who are left alone by parents who are both engaged in work is one that has cropped up intermittently in the last two decades. It often leads to very serious nutritional deficiencies. During the days of depression and unemployment it was bad, but now, only enough it was ... during days of comparative prosperity. Dutch is ... pay for prosperity.

I feel that all manufacturing plants which employ women workers should have ... nurseries ... night shifts provided over by a responsible attendant. Certainly the women war workers can have a reasonable right to expect that their children will be fed and watched over and attended while they are doing war work for their country.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Mrs. J. J. L.:—Will lemon juice and baking soda taken before breakfast help rheumatism, and is it constipating?

Answer: ... lemon juice and baking soda have always had a reputation for helping rheumatism but not with any very good scientific foundation. At least, they do not harm and are not constipating.

E. B.:—What symptoms would manifest themselves in a person taking vitamin B regularly if the system is getting too much?

Answer: Nutrition experts do not believe vitamin B ever causes toxic symptoms, no matter how much is taken. There have been cases reported, however, of sensitiveness to thiamine chloride (which is vitamin B) causing skin eruptions and other allergic manifestations.

KENTON, Nov. 27 — The Kenton High school machine shop course will be expanded to meet increased needs of the war effort, Supt. L. E. McKinley said today at a district conference at Lima. The national vocational effort will be speeded to train 5,500,000 men and women this year, as compared to the 1,500,000 of 1941, Mr. McKinley said. Modified Interpretations On Connection of Gas-Fired Heating Equipment More Lenient to Residential Users

Several days ago our Company advertised its interpretations of recent additional limitations of War Production Board Order L-31 affecting the connection to gas lines of certain types of gas-fired heating equipment on and after November 30th. After discussions with the War Production Board Office, we are glad to announce considerable modification of these interpretations so that many residential users of gas heating equipment will be less inconvenienced through moving or replacing their equipment. The following are the new interpretations of limitations affecting the connection of gas-fired heating equipment to the lines of residential premises on and after November 30, 1942:

The new limitations do not affect the use of gas-fired equipment already connected to the lines as long as it remains installed at the same address.

No ADDITIONAL gas-fired heating equipment — including radiant heaters, conversion burners, etc. — may be connected to the lines, but REPLACEMENT equipment of this kind and size may be installed at the same premise. (Gas furnace may not replace gas-fired boiler, radiant heaters may not replace circulating gas heater, etc. even though the capacity is not increased.)

No gas-fired space heating equipment may be connected at a new address unless equipment of like kind and size was in use by former occupant.

No heating equipment not using gas on the date effective may be converted to the use of gas as a fuel.

Owners of rental property who furnish gas-fired space heaters for the property may permit new tenants to use the equipment as part of the rented property. If the rental property is not so equipped by the owner, but previous tenant had installed and used such equipment, a new tenant would be permitted installation and use of similar equipment.

Limitation order L-31 places additional limitations on non-residential equipment of all types. Further information may be secured at our local office by this class of consumers.

"Are you a writer?" Rita said. [illegible] forbid! Or maybe I [illegible] say I follow a profession [illegible] lowly than that—I am [illegible]."

"Actress?"

"I haven't as yet sunk quite [illegible]." His light hearted grin [illegible] the words of their snob[illegible]. "I am still a staunch adve[illegible] the superiority of the [illegible] stage. Clark Pasquin's [illegible]. You may have heard [illegible]. His smile showed white, [illegible] teeth.

"Clark Pasquin!" Rita gasped. "Here anyone who hasn't heard [illegible] I saw you last season, 'Twilight Melodies,' and thought [illegible] the best musical since 'Rio [illegible].'"

"I'm glad to hear you say that." [illegible] apparently anxious to [illegible] the subject from himself [illegible] asked, "Going to New York [illegible] vacation?"

"No. On business. Business for [illegible] father. He was to have gone [illegible] was taken ill suddenly."

"I'm sorry." Clark's tone was [illegible]ine. "How long are you staying [illegible] in New York?"

"Only a couple of days," Rita said.

"May I see you, we'll say tomorrow night?"

Rita's heart was racing madly although she was trying desperately not to show the excitement she really felt.

Somehow she managed to get the words out with a casual calmness that even surprised herself. "I'd love to. I'm stopping at the Cheltenham on Forty-Fifth."

Rita Finds Understanding

The next morning Rita went directly to the First National bank. Outwardly it was with calm composure that she faced the dark-haired girl at the switchboard.

"I would like to see Mr. William Cunningham, please?"

"Did you have an appointment?"

"No, but I'm sure he will see me. I've come all the way from California to talk with him. Tell him it's Rolly Ralston's daughter."

The switchboard operator smiled briefly as she made the connection with Cunningham's office.

"A Rolly Ralston's daughter from California to see Mr. Cunningham," she said crisply. And then turning to Rita, "Mr. Cunningham will see you. The first door over there, you may walk right in."

Gesturing toward a chair opposite his desk Mr. Cunningham looked at Rita with keen interest.

"So you're Rolly Ralston's daughter?" he inquired.

Rita smiled and nodded.

"How is your dad?"

Rita's smile faded.

"He's not at all well. He had intended making this trip to see you but suffered a severe heart attack the day he was to have left."

"I'm sorry to hear that." Cunningham's voice was concerned. "I always thought a lot of your dad."

Rita took a deep breath. "It's about the loan, of course, that I've come."

Cunningham cleared his throat lustily.

"Yes, I was sorry when my secretary reminded me a week or so ago that the loan had gone delinquent. You know banks are purely impersonal institutions. We are trusted to loan our depositors' money. When it isn't paid back on time some action has to be taken. Very often we wish we could be more lenient."

"You mean that loans can't be extended?" Rita's face showed lines of worry.

"That is a matter to be decided by the board of directors."

"Now don't misunderstand me, please, Mr. Cunningham, I know that the fact that you and dad went to college together has nothing to do with this deal. The money was borrowed and has to be paid back, but there's so much more at stake than just a rancher by the name of Ralston, his daughter and Blossom Ranch."

"You mean the orange concentrating plant your father wrote me about?" Cunningham asked.

"Yes," Rita said simply.

"You're thinking of all those friends and neighbors of yours who put their savings into that venture?"

A look of sudden surprise crossed Rita's face. "Then, then, you know all about it?"

"When we make a loan of that size, dear, we always like to know exactly what the money is being used for. I have a complete report in my files."

"You know, too, the good that has been accomplished with that money—that over 3,000,000 gallons of concentrated juice has already been shipped to England and distributed free from pharmaceutical houses to children under 2 years of age. Children that otherwise might have been easy prey to malnutrition."

Gloria

Before Cunningham answered, his secretary came into the room, controlling an exasperated frown. "Mr. Cunningham, your daughter—"

The door behind her was yanked open violently and a dark-haired girl, whose exquisitely groomed appearance was marred only by the willful line of her lips, entered. She gave the secretary an scrusing glare as she whipped in past her.

"Conference!" she scoffed, nodding toward Rita. "It's only a girl!"

Cunningham smiled sympathetically at the secretary as she left. "Try a straight jacket on her the next time, Miss Martin." Then he turned back to Rita. "Miss Ralston, this is my daughter, Gloria."

As Gloria acknowledged her with a bored nod, Rita regarded the other girl with an appreciative eye. She was truly dazzling with her long bob falling in blue-black cascades from under a smart white suede hat, her close-fitting black street dress revealing a trim figure and her slim shoulders enhanced by the soft luxuriance of a silver fox. She was snapping shut her jeweled cigarette case and tapping a cigarette on one havily lacquered nail.

As Cunningham bent forward to light his daughter's cigaret, he was forced from his concentration on the business in hand to a contrasting appraisal of the two girls—Rita so freshly eager, so—well, the French had a word for it — "bal-anced!" — while Gloria radiated only an irritated tension, a driven, frustrated determination. What was the difference in the two? He found himself saying hopefully:

"Gloria this is Rita Ralston, the daughter of one of my old school friends. She's from California. Perhaps you'll be able to see something of her while she's in town."

"What a shame!" Gloria snapped a polite smile in Rita's direction. "Just simply snowed under—if I'd only known you were coming— The next time—"

She wandered about the office, breaking in on Rita's conversation with Cunningham. She called a friend and made exciting plans for the afternoon and evening. Rita grew more and more confused and distracted. She wondered if Cunningham were really hearing her story.

She was relieved on this point when he took her to the door and laid an understanding hand on her shoulder, while he said, "The Board of Directors meets tonight and I'll tell them the circumstances regarding your father's loan. Don't worry about it. My recommendation carries a lot of weight. Call me in the morning and I'll give a definite answer."

Rita swallowed a lump that had risen in her throat. "I'll be waiting—and thank you so much, she murmured.

CHAPTER FIVE

Gloria on the Trail

THE audience rose as the curtain went down for the last time, and applauded with enthusiasm.

"What a man! What a show!" Gloria sighed as she turned to Patty Wilcox.

On the wave of excitement the girls gathered up their coats and purses, made hasty repairs to their make-up and joined the slowly flowing stream of people that were trickling up the aisle.

Gloria whispered to Patty, "Do you have that stage door pass from Sydney?"

Patty fumbled in her bag and produced a pink slip of paper signed with the scrawl of the producer.

At the stage door old John nodded pleasantly as he examined the pink slip and pointed the way to Clark's dressing room.

Gloria knocked on the door. It opened a crack and showed a portion of Stub Duffy's florid face. "What is it?" he asked.

"We want to speak with Mr. Pasquin," Gloria snapped.

The florid face emerged in its entirety and with it came a short stocky man baggily dressed in a checked suit. He closed the dressing room door after him as he came out.

"I'm Stub Duffy, Mr. Pasquin's manager, at your service!"

"We still want to speak with Mr. Pasquin," Gloria's tone revealed her annoyance.

"I interview everyone for Mr. Pasquin; what is the nature of your business?" Duffy drawled.

"In other words what's his business must first be your business," Gloria said angrily.

"That's the general idea," Duffy said with a good-natured grin.

"Well if we must deal through Mr. Pasquin's nurse-maid we would like to entertain him in the Bronze Room at the Carlton tonight," said Patty.

Duffy listened, but his watery eyes were blinking at the dark loveliness of Gloria.

"Pardon me for asking," he said, "but aren't you the Gloria Cunningham that Cholly Knickerbocker picked a few weeks back as the country's number one glamour girl?"

Gloria smiled one of her best camera smiles and said sweetly, "One and the same."

Turned Down

Duffy scratched his head in thoughtful consideration.

"Just a minute, girls, I'll speak to the boss." With this he turned and went into the dressing room closing the door behind him.

Clark was standing in front of a full-length mirror adjusting his necktie. He turned as he heard the door close.

"What is it, Stub?" he asked.

"It's a bevy of society dolls that desire your presence at the Carlton tonight." Stub finished with a low, sweeping bow.

"Tell them I'm sorry; I have a previous engagement for tonight," Clark said.

"I know, boss, but I was just thinking. It's that glamour puss number one and her team-mate. Not that you need the publicity but it might not be a bad plug for the show for you to be seen in the morning papers surrounded by that group."

"Duffy, aren't you ever going to get over your yen for publicity?" Clark couldn't help but smile at the look of disappointment that crossed Duffy's face.

"You better tell 'em, boss, there's no good in making them sore and anyway I'm afraid that black-haired doll will scratch my eyes out." Duffy sighed and dropped into a chair.

Clark laughed.

"Nonsense, Duffy, just turn on that charming manner of yours that you used on the rich widow in Atlanta and go out and tell the girls how sorry I am and how honored I feel that they wanted to entertain me. You've done it dozens of times, why get weak-kneed now?"

Duffy took a deep breath and got slowly to his feet. "Okay, boss, but if the black-haired dame beats me to the draw, tell my dear old mother that I went down fighting." Duffy dragged from the room and closed the door behind him.

"Of course he'll come!" Patty asked before the door snapped shut.

"He's awfully sorry, girls, but he has an engagement that he just can't break. He—he even tried to get out on the telephone but, well, there just wasn't any way he could fix it." Duffy actually looked grieved.

"Well, that's just ducky," Gloria cut in. "Here we go to all the trouble to get the crowd together to meet the great Pasquin and then he walks out on us."

"After all, girls a couple of hours isn't much notice to give you," Duffy said.

"I agree on that" Patty said "I told you, Gloria, we should have arranged to this a week ago through Sydney."

"I don't like to make plans a week in advance" Gloria snapped. "I might have been entirely out of the mood by the time the night came." Nobody ever accused Gloria and they didn't now. There was a moment of silence and then with the suddenness of a summer thunderstorm Gloria changed and smiled her sweetest up at poor Duffy.

Fast Work

"I have a plan," she said brightly, "why don't you tell us Mr. Pasquin's favorite night spot? We can at least have a little party of our own and Sydney can introduce us."

Stub Duffy's facial expression told that he liked the idea, although he knew Clark would be angry with him. He thought to himself, "It can't do any harm, and I still think a few candid camera shots in the morning papers will be a neat bit of publicity."

In a low confidential tone, he whispered, "He always goes to the Wallaby Club. Says it's the best spot in New York this season."

The rest of that first day in New York had passed in a whirl of excitement for Rita. When she met Clark for a before-the-show supper at Lindy's she was breathless and starry-eyed.

"I've tried to see everything the tourist wants to see in the Big City today," she laughed. "The Battery, the Bronx, the Aquarium, the Zoo, Staten Island and Fifth Avenue. I've almost succeeded—except for one thing."

"What's that?" Clark asked.

"I went so fast I can't remember a single thing I saw."

Clark's famous laugh boomed out. "You'll make a first class New Yorker," he said. He watched her as she sipped her cocktail, appreciating the picture she made in her black faille suit and white lace jabot against the tawny leather seat. "You'll have to dim out those eyes though, when you turn toward the ocean," he added with a grin, "or you'll silhouette every ship in the harbor."

She laughed with him, then sobered abruptly. "It's terribly good of you to give me this evening—but how can you do it?"

"It took a lot of arranging," he admitted. "But I wanted to see the lift of your chin and the straight, level way you look at me out of those brown eyes of yours." His hand covered hers.

Rita laughed slightly, and pulled back her hand.

Layman's Delight

FEW MILITARY campaigns spread themselves on the map for laymen as literally as the German drive into the Caucasus that now is threatened by a Russian counter-attack above Stalingrad.

There are two routes by which Germans may reach their traditional goal—the Near East. In the other war, they skirted the Black sea to the south, via Turkey. In this war, they skirted the Black sea to the north, via the Ukraine and the Caucasus.

There always was the possibility that Russia might nip the German supply line strung tenuously into the Caucasus. That was the importance of Stalingrad, which in Russian hands was a taking-off point for a drive toward the Black sea covering German communications. That was the importance of Turkey's neutrality; the alternate route was closed.

If Russia can continue its push, if Turkey can maintain its neutrality, or failing in that can resist the Germans, then drive into the Near East will fail. Their defeat will be measurably closer. Even a layman can grasp the significance of that Russian counter-offensive northwest of Stalingrad. Even Hitler can see what his enemies are up to this time.

Gov. Lehman Will Need Help

OUT WHERE the food is raised, Gov. Lehman's appointment as distributor of agricultural commodities and medical supplies to the allies of the United States merely raised a question.

Farmers and their spokesmen know there is a bigger job to be done than winning friends and influencing people with farm products. First, the farm products must be produced. Gov. Lehman, an expert in banking and politics, won't be able to do much about that.

The United States—and its allies—are threatened with acute want unless there is a great awakening in Washington. The voices crying in the cornfields are warning that consumption is outstripping production; that food and fiber shortages are imminent; that the storehouse of democracy soon will be bare; that agricultural production, high this year because of unusually good weather, felt the pinch of labor scarcity and price pinching and will slump seriously in 1943.

The myth of over-production foisted on the people during the hungry years is hard to explode. Even in Washington, where men should know better, it still is believed. But men who understand agriculture don't believe it. They know and are warning the administration that the farm industry is in the first stages of an ebb tide in production that must be checked lest Americans and their allies find themselves fighting hunger as well as the Axis.

Matter of Public Information

AS THE END of the year approaches there is heightened apprehension of a financial fiasco next March 15 when 1942 incomes go under the internal revenue department's microscope.

More than 70,000,000 persons will be initiated into the no longer exclusive Income Tax club next March. A Gallup poll has revealed that many of them don't even know they've been elected.

Of those who do know—even of those who have tried to figure out how much they are going to owe the government—only a fraction will be able to settle their account in one payment.

It is being pointed out that the federal government now faces the same problem as state and local governments. The question no longer is whom to tax but how to collect.

In other words, when the government plans to take $150 from a man who makes $100 a month, the government and the man are both going to need to do some planning. Failure on the part of either will bring disappointment to both.

The income tax obligation is a matter of vital public information. In the less than four months remaining before it falls due, every one of the 50,000,000 citizens who will owe their government money next March 15 should be encouraged to worry about it.

News Behind the News

German Forces in Italy Prevenung Any Possible Revolution There Now.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27—The Italian people literally have three-quarters of a million Nazi guns at their heads.

Sixty or more German divisions have been pushed into Mussolini's land by Hitler, to ward off as long as possible the collapse of the Fascist regime and the revolution that would bring the first break for peace.

Consequently, those recent rumors out of Turkey and elsewhere, suggesting that the old Marshal Badoglio is already preparing to oust Il Duce, have not whipped up much expectation of immediate action here.

True, Italy should be the first to break. A strong revolutionary movement is in hiding awaiting the first chance to take over. It would have pushed the feeble Mussolini off his palace seat long ago, except that such a step would only bring Hitler's guns into action and crush the revolution prematurely.

So it looks to those who now watch matters closely here that the allied nations will have to take Sicily and then land troops in Italy before the signal can be given.

Air Duel Looms

Secretly, he called in everything he had of consequence from every front when he saw all Africa about to fall as a result of our invasion. He would not give Rommel enough air support to stop the British attack in Egypt, but when we moved into the western Mediterranean, he went into action.

Some planes were taken from the western front. A large store he had accumulated in Rumania for a threatened attack on Turkey were all called in. His sky fleets in Greece and Crete were likewise augmented. All have assumed positions in Sicily and Italy for what may now become the greatest air battle of the war.

That is one thing which has retarded our progress through Tunisia. He could fly even his short range fighter planes in from other fronts, but ours had to come by boat from Britain. (Only our bombers came via air.)

His gasoline stores could also be flown, but ours had to come by transport. Naturally, in the face of this quickly massed resistance, we had to wait to gather in our full strength before plunging into a tremendous air fight.

Also Hitler has managed to get a few transports across to Africa with submarine and air protection. He has even succeeded in withdrawing troops from the far-away Caucasus front and bringing them to Italy.

But our troops and the British outnumber his three to one or more. We will win.

Russian Front

The Russian communiques sound like the back of the German army has been broken at Stalingrad and annihilation of Hitler's armies on that front might possibly be complete.

No one, however, ever knows how much Russia has, or how true are the Red communiques. Official statements on both sides on that front have been notoriously exaggerated.

If the Soviet claims of killed and captured have not been repetitious, certainly a final decline of German military morale in Russia would be indicated.

But it is wiser to be cautious and expect that the Germans can form a straight line across the bend of the Don river. Such a winter line is physically feasible.

However, if the Soviets get as far as Rostov, they can cut the Caucasus armies of Hitler completely off from their base and extend the Nazi disaster to proportions which will stimulate talk of surrender.

From all these factual considerations, it is evident German military power of resistance is being broken. The axis cannot win the war.

Hitler knows it as well as we do—perhaps better. (He knows, for instance, the extent to which British and American bombings have limited his plane production, a matter at which we can only guess.)

The road to victory and peace is therefore open and the way clear ahead.

The top of the hill will come quickly if revolutions get started in Italy and Germany, but the lives of the officials who have the guns in those countries depend on how long they can hold those guns, not only against us but against their discouraged and dissenting elements.

In the face of defeat, they will hang on as long as possible. Rumors based on plain expectations, therefore, may be premature, may lead us to ease up.

Clearly, this is the time for us to strike harder and faster. Our offensive plans must be rushed into double-quick. Things we contemplated doing next spring must be done now. Production and deliveries must be keyed higher.

We can pray that German arms will bring peace tomorrow, next week, next month, or as soon as possible, but we must pass the ammunition faster to effect the result.

The Eisenhower Brothers

"BIG IKE"

"LITTLE IKE"

By DANIEL J. MARSTON
Associated Press Writer

TACOMA, Wash., Nov. 27—Big Ike and Little Ike always ran together in their boyhood home back at Abilene, Kan.

So Big Ike—now Attorney Edgar H. Eisenhower, a leader in civic circles here the last 28 years—was duly proud of Little Ike—Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, commander of the American forces invading North Africa.

"Dwight could never get enough history," his brother recalled, as the story unfolded of our African operations. "That's one trait that, I think, led to where he is today."

Five Brothers

Looking back to their youth, Edgar Eisenhower said there were five brothers, Arthur, Milton, Earl, Dwight and himself. Arthur was the oldest.

"I came next," he recalled, "and then Dwight. When Arthur went off in the world, Dwight and I ran together.

"We went through grade school and high school together, played all the games, fought all the battles together. I was Big Ike and he was Little Ike. The kids called us Ike to abbreviate Eisenhower, which was too much a mouthful to yell across the street."

The family had no military tradition. It had moved a couple generations ago from Pennsylvania to Kansas as pioneers. If their father had not been short of money with which to educate his big family of sons, Dwight Eisenhower might not be leading the American forces today.

"It was simply that Dad didn't have the money to send us all to college," Attorney Eisenhower said. "Dwight wanted an education and he found he could get it at West Point. So there he went."

There is only a year's difference between the two brothers. Friends here who knew the general when he was stationed at nearby Fort Lewis say they are alike as "two peas in a pod." Both are hearty men, love a laugh and activity and shun any semblance of snobbery.

Mrs. Ida Eisenhower, their mother, a spry, active lady although now 82 years old, came from Kansas to visit her Tacoma son in August. Their father died last March at Abilene.

The brother, Milton, is chief assistant to Elmer Davis, administrative head of the Office of War Information. Arthur is vice president of a Kansas bank and Earl an electrical engineer at Pittsburgh.

Edgar chuckled when he recalled what their high school class historian, a girl named Cecil Curry, had predicted for Dwight.

It was that he would become a history teacher. Instead—

"He became a history-maker," said Mrs. Edgar Eisenhower.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Monday, Nov. 27, 1922. Announcement was made that Marion was to have a new race track built by William D. Drake at an estimated cost of $15,000 on the Drake lot on East Fairground street. Preliminary plans called for stables to accommodate 30 horses, bleachers and a grandstand with a seating capacity of approximately 10,000 and a grass oval for outdoor games.

Miss Freda M. Annette of Green Camp and Lester H. Smart of Marion were united in marriage by Rev. B. M. Gow at the Fite Memorial Baptist church parsonage.

Party Given Backing of Voters, But Nevertheless "On Spot."

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27—It already is plain to be seen that the Republicans consider the late election as a mandate "to get the job done" as quickly and efficiently as possible; that they feel they have a ticket from the voters to crack down on many New Deal domestic policies; and that checking up on how the billions for war are spent will be one of their theme songs.

Senate Minority Leader McNary, Senator Vandenberg, House Minority Leader Martin, and several others, including a few anti-administration Democrats, have said as much. This doesn't mean that there will be any hindrance to the war effort. The way congress rushed back to clean up the 18-19 draft bill, without binding the War department in its handling of the 'teen agers, was proof.

On the Spot

But Washington political observers are not going to lose sight of three things (1)—The Republican party is more or less "on the spot." Its "minority" is so slight in the house (only 15 seats) that any coalition it might form with anti-administration Democrats (the GOP always courteously refers to them as "Jefferson Democrats") will put responsibility for house legislation squarely on Republican shoulders.

(2)—In formation of the 78th congress, the Republicans probably will demand and may get a larger representation in the committees. Congress is really an organization of committees. Although floor fights frequently occur on legislation, most laws are "made" in committee.

Except for the powerful rules committee, which has 10 Democrats and five Republicans the committee distribution is generally 60 per cent for the majority and 40 per cent for the minority.

Yet distribution of the house will be so nearly 50-50 that Republicans might threaten an awful rumpus on the floor (a threat the Democrats will fear a great deal from January on) if their representation isn't increased.

Ratio Threatened

Also, it may be physically impossible with 223 Democrats, 208 Republicans, two Progressives, one Farmer Laborite and one American Labor party member to maintain the 60-40 ratio.

And (3)—Although the still-substantial Democratic majority in the Senate, which will be composed of 57 Democrats, 38 Republicans and one Progressive, will serve as a check-rein on a runaway coalition of anti-New Dealers in the house, the upper chamber also will be a little more cautious in going against the lower, and when the case arises a little stronger in backing it up.

At this date, it is too early to predict exactly what will happen in the reorganization of the new congress in January. But if you are interested in the workings of democracy in general and the future of congress in particular, keep an eye on whether the line in the house forms to the right, to the left or right down the middle.

This Week in the Sky

(Prepared especially for this page by the Hayden Planetarium of the American Museum of Natural History in New York City.)

• • •

AT THE present time the evening sky is richer with the beauty of the planets than the morning sky.

Both Jupiter and Saturn are evening stars now. Jupiter rises something more than two hours after sunset and is a gorgeous bright object of stellar magnitude —2.2, brighter than any other star or planet in the night sky. It is now retrograding or moving westward against the background of the stars.

On December first Saturn is in opposition with the sun, and at that time, of course, it rises at sunset and can be seen all night.

Mars is now in the morning sky, but rises so little to the west of the sun that it is not yet a conspicuous object. By the middle of the month, however, it will be easily seen.

Let us have faith that right makes might; and in that faith let us to the end, dare to do our duty as we understand it.—(Abraham Lincoln)

THE statement of the medicos that ant eggs, grasshoppers and crickets are edible is no news to me, though I must confess I have never been able to find a chef who knew how to prepare ants' eggs properly. Some exponents of the culinary art contend they should be cooked like larvil while others hold they should be served raw on pieces of toast as canapes and assure me that they are about the same.

Grasshoppers and crickets, as everyone knows, are prepared in the manner of snails with plenty of garlic sauce. I know a gourmet who says that as between grasshoppers and snails he will take grasshoppers any time, they are much prettier. However, the inexperienced should never attempt to cook grasshoppers and crickets for the table without supervision. A friend of mine not so versed in insectology inadvertently collected and cooked some centipedes with his grasshoppers and crickets and they were not unappetizing.

I WOULD not know about the termite eggs if I had heard of them as delicacies and one I explored an old outbuilding on Hicks Island, down in Dade county, Fla., with the idea of collecting some of the eggs and giving them a whirl, but it seems it was the settling season for the termites. When I tried to get the eggs from under them as they sat on the nests, they turned on me and attacked me with great ferocity.

Nor have I ever sampled the white grubs from the pith of the palm. I suppose Drs. Wilder and Keys will feel that this argues that I am woefully ignorant of the good things of life, but I would like to ask them if they have ever tasted tarantula steak? Humph! I thought not.

Warning from President

A warning that tuberculosis is increasing alarmingly in warring countries was sounded Tuesday by President Roosevelt in indorsing the 36th annual Christmas Seal campaign which started Monday, Nov. 23. The campaign, sponsored nationally by the National Tuberculosis association, is conducted in Ohio by 88 county tuberculosis associations affiliated with the Ohio Public Health association.

President Roosevelt said it will take the greatest effort possible on the part of the people to hold the disease in check in this country. In indorsing the Christmas Seal campaign, President Roosevelt said:

"The unholy alliance between war and disease is particularly powerful in the case of tuberculosis. Tuberculosis has increased in every place war. The disease is increasing alarmingly in many warring European and Asiatic countries.

"In the United States tuberculosis is now at the lowest rate in our history. But, to hold the disease in check during wartime will demand the greatest effort possible on the part of the people, the medical profession, the tuberculosis associations and the official health department. Cooperation of all people in the fight against tuberculosis is imperative.

"The tuberculosis associations are well under way in their intensified and expanded wartime campaign. I have full confidence that the American people will generously add the purchase of Christmas Seals to their many other worthy activities."

Women at War

For the first time in the history of a democracy, Britain conscripts women for service in the Army, Navy and air force. Two hundred thousand British women have been conscripted for the Army, known as ATS, or the auxiliary territorial service. There are more women in the air force than the total personnel of the RAF at the outbreak of the war, and almost all of the land-base jobs of the British Navy are now handled by women.

In addition to cooking and office work, Britain's women soldiers and sailors are driving trucks and motorcycles, repairing motor vehicles, packing and repacking parachutes, installing, inspecting and maintaining gun equipment and ammunition of combat planes after each raid, raising and lowering barrage balloons, forecasting weather, manning barges, sending and receiving radio messages. A normal ack-ack unit is composed of 2 women and 139 men. The women man the height finders and predictors, give bearings and signal to fire. And they are being killed in action alongside the men. Aerial reconnaissance is the latest field where British women are stepping into men's shoes, serving as observers in planes flying over military objectives. —By Eldridge Haynes in Harper's Magazine.

HASH OF AXIS NEXT WITH HOLIDAY OVER

England Joins in Celebration of U. S. Feast Day.

By The Associated Press

America plunged into the job of making hash of the axis today after beating its lustiest drumstick tattoo on Thanksgiving.

Except for a brief interlude of religious observance and a heavier-than-usual dinner fare, yesterday was like many another for most Americans who kept the factories humming.

But the spirit of Thanksgiving wandered farther from its native land than ever before, spreading overseas to America's fighting men in far corners of the earth.

In England where London newspapers explained the significance of the holiday, thousands of British homes were opened to American soldiers. Roast pork instead of the traditional turkey was the main dish at overseas bases.

President Roosevelt's proclamation giving thanks for "the greatest harvest in the history of our nation," was read in London by Ambassador Winant. In Australia, the mess tables of our troops held plenty of turkey.

On the home front, many war plant bulletin boards bore a greeting to workers from Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, commander-in-chief of the expeditionary forces in North Africa.

"In this Thanksgiving day," Eisenhower asserted, "let us thank God for the American industry—labor and management—which has given us the weapons and the equipment with which to conduct our North African campaign. More power to you."

The President, high officials of the government and of the Army and Navy, participated in prayer and song service in the White House.

ANOTHER NEWSPRINT REDUCTION FORECAST

Likely in Few Weeks. Manager of A. N. P. A. Says

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 27—Cranston Williams, general manager of the American Newspaper Publishers association, said yesterday it was likely a cut in newsprint production would be made in the United States and Canada within a few weeks.

In a bulletin issued to members of the association, he said:

"Information from Washington and Montreal is that officials of the United States and Canadian governments are giving active consideration to plans to reduce newsprint production below the cut in the freeze order effective Nov. 1, last, and that it is very likely the new cut will be made effective in a few weeks and possibly not later than around Jan. 1.

"Further information indicates active consideration is being given plans to prorate a ... newsprint ... ... expected.

Calls Committee Dec. 10

Meanwhile, it was learned that ... Chandler, chief of the printing and publishing branch of WPB ... ... a meeting of the newspaper ... advisory committee to be held in Washington Dec. ...

It ... also understood the advisory committee was selecting a ... ... committee to consider means to bring newsprint consumption into line with lower production.

While ... information was available from ... N. P. A. or other sources as to the amount of curtailment ... ... in the new order, ... publishers' circle has been 5 per cent, with some mention of 10 per cent.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27—Director E. G. Wakeman of the War Production Board's pulp and paper division denied knowledge of a report received by senators that newsprint paper had been placed on a WPB list of nonessentials.

Chairman Truman, Democrat of Montana, and Senator Brewster, Republican of Maine, of the special defense investigating committee, asserted it was their understanding such action had been taken. So did committee Counsel Hugh Fulton.

However, Wakeman told the committee he had never seen a list of nonessentials which included newsprint.

Poll Shows War Workers Willing To Work Overtime

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 27—A ... majority of workers in war industries ... willing to work at least 48 hours a week ... of them want overtime pay for anything over 40 hours.

On the ... question of ... ... those now working under 48 hours ... declared themselves willing ... to work ... at least 48 ... ... following figures ... from the question put to them:

"Would you be willing to work at least 48 hours a week on your present job?"

	War Workers	Non-War Workers
Yes	79%	74%
No	11	17
No Opinion	5	4
Qualified	5	5

"The problem obviously is not one of willingness to work additional hours each week.

The results given by war workers to the second question serve to emphasize that the real issue, so far as war workers themselves are concerned, is mainly one of hours to be worked before overtime pay begins.

Here is the question:

"How many hours do you think workers in war industries should work in a week before time and one-half pay for overtime starts?"

	War Workers	National
40 hours	53%	29%
41-47 hours	1	1
48 hours	30	38
49-59 hours	33	2
60 hours or more	2	3
Should pay no overtime	7	17
No Opinion	1	6

Regular Police Customer Behind Bars Again

The Marion police department's most regular "customer," Dave Williams, 48, is back in city prison for "about the eightieth time."

Williams, released from the county jail on Thanksgiving morning after laying out a fine for an intoxication charge filed against him more than a week ago, was found in a state of intoxication about five hours later. When police attempted to bring him in, Williams resisted and the result was two charges, intoxication and resisting police officers.

Since 1931 Williams has been arrested 59 times. This is as far back as the present police records go but municipal court dockets show that Williams has been charged for cases varying from intoxication to shoplifting at least 80 times in the last 15 years.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Clothing for the average enlisted man in Uncle Sam's Army when he begins duty costs $90.35. Regular issue for the soldier includes one woolen coat at a cost of $8.75. There are millions of soldiers already in uniform and more millions to come.

It will be necessary for at least 30,000,000 men and women on industrial payrolls to invest at least ten percent of wages in War Bonds in a Payroll Savings Plan to help pay for these and other war expenditures. "Top that ten percent by New Year's" is the national slogan to back up our boys in that uniform.

TIME LOSSES HIT INDUSTRY

Absences from Work This Year Cost Enough Time To Build 5,000 Planes.

By International News Service

BOSTON, Mass.—Absenteeism for 1942 will cost war industry 121,000,00 man-days, the equivalent of $1,000,000,000 in wages to war workers and enough to build 5,000 Flying Fortresses at the present rate of production, Dr. Victor G. Heiser, medical consultant to the National Association of Manufacturers' committee on healthful working conditions, declared recently.

Dr. Heiser, told the Round Table on Health in Industry, sponsored by the Associated Industries of Massachusetts, that this estimated loss in man hours, due to sickness, accidents, and other causes, "means a broad grin on the faces of Hitler, Mussolini and Hirohito —a grin which must be wiped off, and wiped off soon."

He pointed out that 121,000,000 man-days "in the right place" not only would mean 5,000 Flying Fortresses this year, but it would mean 10,000 of the huge bombers "when mass production gets into full swing; 21,000,000 Garand rifles, or 161,000,000 500-pound demolition shells.

Many Are Killed

Despite "industry's best efforts to forestall every possibility for accidents on the job," the N.A.M. medical consultant said, "42,600 war production workers have been killed, either on or off the job, since Pearl Harbor."

"Add the number injured," he said, "and the record is this: 11,000 war workers killed or injured on and off the job every day since December 7."

Fatigue and malnutrition contribute to the record, said Dr. Heiser. He said America spends $9,000,000,000 for 130,000,000 tons of food every year "and yet we find that approximately three-quarters of our wage-earning families—like so many of the rest of us, I fear—pay so little attention to what constitutes good diet that they must be classified as 'ill-fed,' according to recommended standards of good nutrition."

Victory Launches

He called for establishment of plant cafeteria, whenever possible, to make available to workers "attractive, varied and inexpensive dinners." He also recommended that attention be given toward improvement of the "terrible 'greasy spoon'" type of restaurant that exist near many factories, and suggested that workers' wives learn how to pack lunch boxes with "the lunch that packs a punch."

Training of women physicians to take the place of factory doctors called into military service also was urged by Dr. Heiser.

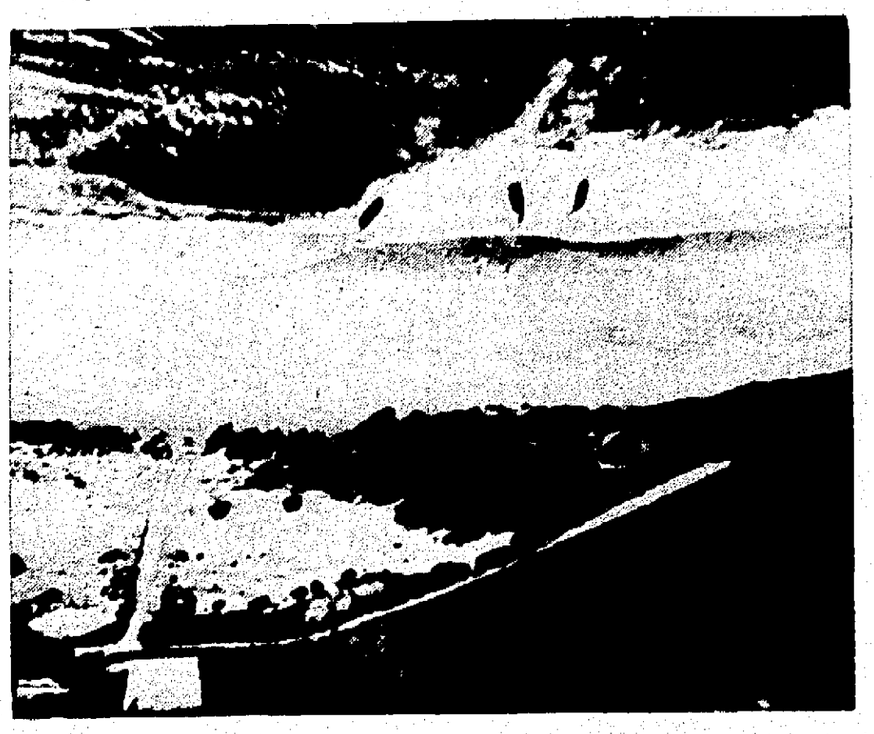

Urges Precautions

Calling on management, labor, government and medicine all to get together in working out a "Prescription for Production," Dr. Heiser said:

"One of the great miracles on the production side has been the feat performed by the machine tool industry in duplicating its production capacity in two and one-half years. But all the machines in the world are useless unless we have healthy workers to keep them running.

"If we were to do a job in improving the health and efficiency of our industrial manpower comparable to the job we have done and are doing in increasing the production capacity of our machines, we could deal the Axis a blow that would send them reeling. A full house still beats three of a kind—in poker and in the battle of production."

FERRY PILOTS COVER WORLD

Deliver Thousands of War Planes from Factories Every Month.

By WILLIAM F. BONI
Associated Press Military Editor.

LONG BEACH, Calif.—"Through these portals pass the finest pilots on earth." So reads the sign over the pilots' lounge at Long Beach municipal airport.

A captious soul might want to argue the point, just as admirers of Ziegfeld showgirls in days gone by might have disputed Earl Carroll's similarly-worded claim to having "the most beautiful girls in the world" in his vanities.

But there can be no argument with the job these men are doing—the pilots of a ferrying group of the ferrying division, air transport command, Army air force. Each month these men deliver thousands of warplanes which roll out of the near-by plants of Consolidated, Douglas, Lockheed, North American, Northrop, Ryan, Vega and Vultee.

Always Ready.

On call constantly for word that a new shipment is ready, they fly east, north or west—across the Pacific—as the case may be. They fly everything from Ryan's primary trainers to Consolidated's four-engine Liberators and the Flying Fortresses which Vega and Douglas are turning out in their pool with Boeing.

This particular group is under the command of Col. Ralph E. Spake, 49-year-old veteran of first World war flying and a senior pilot in his own right. A senior pilot, for the benefit of late comers, is a man with a minimum of 1,800 flying hours, 900 of which must be military time.

Col. Spake, to quote his subordinates, "has a mania for moving airplanes," which makes him an ideal man for the job. This certainly is one section where there are a lot of planes to be moved.

To get them moved, two factors are of prime importance:

Making as many pilots as possible familiar with all types of aircraft; keeping all the pilots in peak physical condition.

Go from Factory.

To achieve the first Col. Spake and Maj. Richard D. Morgan, his operations man, run their own flying school, though they don't call it that. The planes the ferry pilots deliver usually are flown straight from the factory. The ones you will see lined up on the apron in front of the operations building, or racing off down the runways here, are Douglas A-20's or North American B-25's or Lockheed P-38's being used as "school ships."

These men, now playing gin-rummy, drinking cokes or swapping yarns of Egypt, Australia or Alaska, are on a seven-day-a-week schedule. They fly, sometimes, for 16 hours without letup, spend another 16 hours in a transport returning to their base, and may have to whip right off again only a few hours later.

Admiral Halsey Presents Medals To Navy Heroes

By EUGENE BURNS
AP War Correspondent

SOMEWHERE IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC, Nov. 27—Admiral William F. Halsey Jr., standing on the punctured deck of an American warship, presented 17 officers and men with Navy crosses for gallantry in action with the enemy.

In addition he presented 23 men with silver stars, four of them posthumously. The presentations were made as the ship rode at anchor in a South Sea harbor.

Halsey, with tears in his eyes during part of the ceremony, said "to honor men of the South Pacific force and area who have written a glorious page in the history of our great Navy, we are assembled on this historic battle-scarred deck. I wish I could present every man with a medal as deserved—some day you'll get such a medal.

"To our glorious immortal dead: rest in peace. You've fought a good fight and kept faith—hail and farewell.

"We'll carry on the fight. We'll show them that everyone of you is a better man than that little yellow monkey and we'll make him wish he'd died before he was born."

Pausing to look at the sparkingly white dressed and khaki clad marines and officers—all veterans—he added "you are living proof we can whip them. Against great odds you defeated the enemy."

Lieut. Comdr. William W. Wilbourne, 34, Marion, Ala., gunnery officer received the Navy cross and a citation which read: "He controlled the fire of his offensive weapons in such a rigorous and determined manner that a Japanese battleship was silenced and set afire, a Japanese cruiser was sunk and a destroyer was sunk."

I asked him what he thought about while Halsey was talking.

"There is not a boy in the crew. They are all men. I thought of Carpenter Isbell (Harold A. Isbell, Long Beach, Calif.) He was badly hit in the neck. His jugular vein was cut and he held the vein with his right hand and unreeled the hose and got the pressure on and helped extinguish one of the fires. He's in the hospital."

Isbell got the Navy cross.

Ensign Robert A. Dusch, 35, R.F.D. 3, Alliance, O., added: "Isbell also voluntarily steered the ship when she was out of control after the officers were killed."

Presbyterian Class Meets at Surface Home

The Westminster Bible class of First Presbyterian church met for a 1 o'clock luncheon Tuesday with Mrs. S. L. Surface of 364 South Prospect street.

The class voted to allot $25 for its White Christmas gift. Plans were discussed for a Christmas party and exchange with Mrs. C. H. Lindsey of Windsor street Dec. 16. A potluck lunch will precede the meeting at which the sunshine friends will be revealed.

Group three was in charge of the program which consisted of devotions by Mrs. N. Cunningham and a reading by Mrs. Eugene Hill. A group under the leadership of Mrs. O. E. Williams assisted with the serving.

Mrs. Surface was given a vote of thanks and a bouquet of white chrysanthemums in appreciation of her 20 years as teacher of the class.

WEST POINT

rolled in June at Ohio State university and is now in his second quarter in the college of engineering. He is studying metallurgical engineering.

When Congressman Smith announced civil service examinations to fill vacancies at West Point, Porter took his second examination at the postoffice in Columbus.

Home for the Thanksgiving holiday, he said "That's swell," when told of his principal appointment. He will return to Columbus Saturday morning to attend the Ohio State-Seahawks football game. At Ohio State he is active in Y. M. C. A. affairs and is a pledge of Pershing Rifles, honorary military organization.

At the time of the announcement on Sept. 8, there were two existing vacancies but on Sept. 23 the war department advised Congressman Smith that another vacancy had been created due to resignation of one of the cadets from the Eighth Ohio congressional district. Consequently, three appointments were announced today.

All young men with legal residence in the Eighth district and of qualifying age were eligible to compete in the examination.

Those making the highest grades were designated as principals, those making the next highest, first alternates, the next highest, second alternate, and those next highest, third alternates.

HEIRESS GETS MORE

Remaining one-third inheritance of an original bequest of two trust funds approximating $53,000,000 has been transferred to Mrs. Doris Duke Cromwell, the tobacco heiress, who celebrated her 30th birthday Nov. 23. The amount Mrs. Cromwell received from the trustees on Nov. 23 is believed to have exceeded $17,000,000. Mrs. Cromwell received her first inheritance when she was 21 and her second when she was 25.

Bride-Elect Is Guest of Honor at Kitchen Shower

Miss Doris Utz, bride-elect of Jack C. Tozer, whose wedding is planned for Dec. 2, was complimented with a kitchen shower by Mrs. Joan Austin at her home at 357 West Columbia street Wednesday.

Royal blue and pink, colors Miss Utz has chosen for her wedding, predominated in the appointments and favors for luncheon were small, gaily colored sprinkling cans tied with matching bows. Intermittent ringing of alarm clocks hidden throughout the house signalled to Miss Utz the places she was to hunt for her gifts which were attached to the clocks.

Awards were presented in a series of games with grand prize going to Mrs. Mary Holloway. Guests included, besides Miss Utz, Mrs. O. A. Utz, Mrs. Carl H. Tozzer, Mrs. Don Utz, Misses Marjorie Callahan, Catherine Jones, Mary Holloway, Jeanette Curl, Miriam Linder, Margaret Louise McDonel of Fostoria and Blanche Sipe of Delaware.

GAS RATIONING

men against extension of gasoline rationing Dec. 1 that the committee thought it best to hear both sides of the rationing issue," Chairman Truman (D-Mo) told reporters.

The President's order, announced last night, emphasized that the need for extending what Mr. Roosevelt preferred to call "mileage rationing" as a rubber conservation measure was becoming more acute daily.

"We must do everything within our power to see that the program starts Dec. 1 because victory must not be delayed through failure to support our fighting forces," the President said in identical letters to Jeffers and Henderson, who both declared nationwide rationing was necessary as a rubber conservation measure.

They repeated this contention in a radio broadcast last night in which they were joined by Undersecretary of War Robert Patterson and Rear Admiral Claude A. Jones, assistant chief of procurement and materials.

Henderson Broadcasts

In the broadcast, Henderson asserted that a few persons are "using power and money to keep you from saving the rubber which the soldiers and sailors who are fighting for you need so desperately."

Patterson maintained that without mileage rationing and with unrestricted use of tires "the entire transportation system would collapse."

"It seems as though these gentlemen who mislead you are either ignorant of the fact or intentionally traitorous," Henderson interjected.

Representative Boren (D-Okla) termed the President's order "a dangerous error" and said the rationing of gasoline to conserve rubber was "comparable to rationing water to save coffee, or amputating a leg to cure a toothache."

William H. Deddens of Cincinnati and Jackson E. Betts of Findlay were to contest for speaker pro tem and floor leader of the house. These house officers were expected to be renamed:

William McCulloch of Piqua, speaker, a seat for which James H. McElhaney of Portsmouth has campaigned; Otis R. Johnson, Fulton county, clerk.

Senate Republicans appeared certain to rename Frank E. Whittemore of Akron as floor leader and president pro tem, with Thomas E. Bateman of Columbus scheduled for reappointment as clerk and Cliff Martin of Cincinnati as sergeant-at-arms.

Hoover Says U. S. Must Feed World After War

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 27—A warning that this nation again will have to feed a post-war world to ward off widespread starvation is sounded by Herbert Hoover, who directed food and relief distribution among Europe's hard-hit countries after the last conflict.

The former President wrote in today's issue of Collier's magazine that this war's finish would see the sole food supply sources of consequence in the western hemisphere and Africa, with some supplement from Australia.

Hoover asserted that a 30 per cent rise in America's population since the last war, without a proportionate increase in the animal population, had contributed partly to the need for nationwide meat rationing, but he predicted that "under the present admirable stimulation of production and reduced consumption, our surpluses will increase."

Wickard Revises Hog Production Goals

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27—Declaring that recent war developments had increased the demand for pork products, Secretary of Agriculture Wickard today revised upward previously established 1943 hog production goals and at the same time announced a program designed to support hog prices at an average of $13.25 per hundred pounds, Chicago basis, until Sept. 30, 1944.

The revised 1943 goals call for an increase of 15 per cent over this year's record pig crop.

If realized, the new goal would result in a 1943 pig crop, spring and fall farrowings combined, of 121,000,000 head.

Wickard said hog prices would be supported through government purchase operations of the agriculture marketing administration.

Ten Planes Destroyed

Allied headquarters communique No. 20 reported 10 enemy planes were believed destroyed aground in a United States air force attack upon the Tunis airdrome early yesterday and RAF squadrons the day before "conducted several sweeps, destroying a minimum of 12 enemy aircraft for a loss of seven of our aircraft.

The U. S. pilots were said to have found the Tunis airdrome littered with axis planes destroyed in previous raids.

"Our planes encountered heavy machine-gun fire from the ground, but no fighter opposition," it was announced.

Without confirmation from allied quarters, a transocean dispatch broadcast by the Berlin radio said raiding planes had sunk 64,000 tons of allied transports off French North Africa and in the western Mediterranean. The period was not specified.

Selected French pilots in Morocco are being equipped with new United States pursuit planes and they are expected to be "a great help to our side in the coming campaign," a high American officer said at Casablanca.

Repercussions persisted from Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's approval of an arrangement under which Admiral Jean Darlan became civil administrator of French North Africa.

London political circles said General Charles De Gaulle, veteran leader of the Fighting French, was expected to make a strong personal appeal to Washington for a change in Darlan's status.

"There were many casualties both among the defenders and the scuttling crews who sacrificed their lives to prevent the ships from falling into the hands of the Germans.

"All captains stood on the bridge until their ships sank, most of them lost their lives.

Haul Away Prisoners

"The town echoed to the rattle of German lorries carrying French prisoners who maintained a calm and dignified front while their captors stood over them with fixed bayonets.

"Even after daybreak the noise of the explosions continued as isolated small ships blew themselves up, while massive roars from the munition dumps and oil tanks at some distance from the docks added their quota to the wreckage.

"There was absolutely nothing left of the complicated and precious material stored in the naval arsenal.

"In the early afternoon the mayor of Toulon issued an order for the closing of all cinemas, theaters and public places at 10 p. m., although no restriction had been placed on the movements of the population in the streets."

HARLOW IN NAVY

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, Nov. 27 — Richard Cresson "Dick" Harlow, head football coach at Harvard university, today was sworn into the United States Navy with the rank of lieutenant-commander.

In recent tests Sweden's first cargo vessel to be propelled by producer gas was operated at a saving of more than a dollar an hour from the cost of liquid fuel.

GAS CUT TO COST OHIO $21,200,000

Decline of 37 Per Cent Seen in Tax Income.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 27 — The nationwide gasoline rationing program effective Dec. 1 will cost Ohio's state and local governments approximately $21,200,000 in 1943 gasoline tax revenue, authoritative estimates indicated today.

This represents a decline of about 37 per cent from gasoline income of $50,720,936 in 1941.

Statistical bureaus which requested anonymity further estimated that—

Rationing will reduce the 1943 taxable gasoline consumption by Ohio passenger automobiles to approximately 450,000,000 gallons, a drop of 579,878,000 gallons from 1941, when passenger cars used about 1,027,878,000 gallons;

War-busy trucks and buses will consume next year an additional 450,000,000 gallons of the fuel, or possibly more, virtually duplicating the volume these carriers required in 1941.

68 Per Cent Get "A"

Sixty-eight per cent of Ohio's passenger car owners—1,300,000 out of the state's 1,911,000 total—will operate their machines on "A" book rations only entitling each to the basic 16 gallons per month, or four per week. The balance will qualify for "B" book rations up to 37 2-3 gallons per month, or "C" book classification granting them sufficient gasoline to meet their proven needs.

The estimated revenue decline is based on the four cents per gallon of gasoline tax levied in Ohio under the three cent motor vehicle fuel tax and the one-cent liquid fuel tax. The income is divided thus: motor vehicle tax—state highway department 50.25 per cent, counties and townships 25 per cent, municipalities 18.75 per cent; liquid fuel tax—transferred intact to the state's general funds.

The highway department, therefore, faces a possible tax revenue loss next year of about $11,000,000, counties and townships $5,250,000, municipalities $1,000,000, and the general fund $5,500,000.

U. S. Takes Cut

Uncle Sam, too, must take a cut in Ohio under the impact of the rationing program since the federal government levies an additional per gallon tax of one and one-half cents.

The state division of gasoline and liquid fuel recently reported net income from the motor vehicle fuel tax of $28,876,188 for the first nine months of 1942, against $32,107,051 for the corresponding 1941 period. Taxable gasoline gallonage in the 1942 period was 1,050,452,694, compared to 1,155,730,988 in the similar span a year ago.

The liquid fuel tax yielded Ohio $10,828,064 to Oct. 1 this year, against $11,311,391 for the first nine months of 1941. The corresponding gallonage figures were 1,008,967,305 and 1,201,648,619.

A study of all types of transportation by Joseph B. Eastman, now chief of the office of defense transportation, indicated that the percentage of gasoline used by each classification of motor vehicle is:

Passenger automobiles 67.65, taxicabs 1.82, school buses .34, other buses 1.57, farm trucks 2.27, trucks of 1½ tons or less 11.86 and trucks over 1½ tons 14.49.

H. F. Beckmann, state OPA directors, said state, federal and local authorities would check all gasoline stations to ascertain tank capacities and gasoline on hand as rationing starts at 12:01 a. m. Tuesday.

Supt. Lynn Black of the state highway patrol said the patrol would join a voluntary group of gasoline truck drivers and staffs of state and local sealers of weights and measures to help launch the program.

Franco Boosts Spanish Army to 750,000 Men

By The Associated Press

MADRID, Nov. 27 — Spain's army strength was rising toward 750,000 today as members of the classes of 1938, '39, '40 and '41 reported under orders putting into effect the partial mobilization which Generalissimo Francisco Franco authorized shortly after the allies moved into French North Africa.

Hitler Will Pay Any Price To Hold in Africa

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

SOMEWHERE IN LIBYA, Nov. 26 — (Delayed) — Marshal Rommel is likely to try to recoup the fallen fortunes of himself and master by making a stand at El Agheila, on the Gulf of Sirte.

No one here doubts the determination of the Germans to pay any price in blood in an effort to maintain a foothold in North Africa — for this is essential to control of the Mediterranean. Without that dominion Hitler can no longer even hope for victory in the European war.

How much of a stand Rommel can make at Sirte or El Agheila must depend as I see it on two things.

(1) Whether axis forces in Tunisia can hold Bizerte and Tunis against the allied offensive from the west.

(2) What fighting power remains in Rommel's army. He has suffered huge losses in men and material and the troops have been run ragged by the speed of the retreat of more than 500 miles that, in the early stage, was a debacle.

The greatest danger to the axis undoubtedly lies in the loss of Bizerte and Tunis.

If these two strong positions should fall, the defenders would have to retire in the hope of making a junction with Rommel, presumably at Tripoli, thus consolidating all the axis strength of North Africa.

What strength Rommel can muster for the defense of El Agheila is a matter of speculation.

Apart from the 35,000 men Rommel lost in casualties and prisoners, his sacrifice in tanks, warplanes and other equipment has been colossal.

I have just had an unforgettable air trip over his line of retreat.

There, sprawled across the sands and over the escarpments of the desert, was the story of one of the great routs of military history. It was pictured in the shattered hulks of warplanes, tanks and motor transport and in the mountains of supplies abandoned in the frenzied rush to escape.

Having followed this trail of devastation one finds it hard to believe the marshal has been able to preserve any great striking strength in the army which made the retreat.

At the moment we have a lull while both sides prepare for battle. That can't be long delayed, however.

Cairo Reports Heavy Attacks in Advance of 8th Army.

By The Associated Press

CAIRO, Nov. 27—United States heavy bombers, ranging ahead of the British Eighth Army, made a punishing attack yesterday on Tripoli, main axis base in Africa, and also raided Homs, 100 miles to the east, it was announced today.

The big four-motored bombers flew through bad weather to plunge their bombs on shipping in Tripoli's harbor and on the Spanish mole, the announcement said. No details of the Homs raid were given.

Wednesday night, it was disclosed, RAF medium bombers attacked Tunis in two waves, the first setting fires which were spreading rapidly when the second came over the target.

WPB MODIFIES RULES ON GAS HEATING

More Liberal Interpretation of Regulations Announced.

Modifications of recent limitations affecting the connection to gas lines of certain types of gas-fired heating equipment has been made by the war production board, C. E. Sechrist, manager of the Marion office of the Ohio Fuel Gas Co., announced today.

Under the new limitations effective Nov. 30, many residential users of gas heating equipment will be less inconvenienced through moving or replacing their equipment than was first supposed, according to Mr. Sechrist.

Customers who are changing address may connect gas-fired space heating equipment in their new address, providing equipment of like kind and size was in use by the former occupant. This is a considerable modification of the former interpretation by the WPB.

Following is a summary of the new interpretations:

Use of gas-fired equipment already connected is not affected, as long as it is not moved to another address. Although no additional gas-fired space heating equipment may be connected to lines, replacements of like equipment may be installed. Unless equipment of the same type was used by a former occupant, no gas-fired space heating equipment may be connected at a new address. Conversion to use of gas as a fuel will not be permitted after Nov. 30. Property owners who furnish gas-fired space heaters to tenants may permit new renters to use the heaters. A new tenant will be permitted to install and use equipment similar to that of a former tenant if the property is not equipped by the owner.

Dog Saves Boy, Lost in Freezing Weather

By The Associated Press

SOMERSET, Pa., Nov. 27—Three-year-old Kenneth Eugene Slagle, Jr., wandered three miles from his home in the freezing cold of the Allegheny mountains yesterday—but his faithful collie dog saw to it that no harm befell him.

After state police and six volunteer fire companies searched for the boy six hours, he was found safe in a farm field.

Fireman Thomas Bowman said the dog had dug a hole in the ground in which its little master could lie, safe from the cold wind. There Bowman found the boy and dog, snuggled happily against each other.

Hitler After Big Prize in Seizure of Toulon Base

By The Associated Press

The prize Hitler was after in occupying Toulon was the most important French naval base on the Mediterranean and 62 units of the French fleet, including three capital ships, believed to be there.

Admiral Darlan, who has aligned himself with the allies, had broadcast appeals for the French warships to steam for allied bases; the Petain regime has made counter-efforts to keep them from doing so.

These men-o'war, whose possession by either side could, on paper, up the balance of naval power in the Mediterranean either way, include the battleships Strasbourg, Provence and Dunkerque.

Other units include cruisers, destroyers, submarines and auxiliaries.

Toulon itself is of tremendous importance, lying as it does less than 450 miles across the Mediterranean from allied-occupied Algeria. In Nazi hands this base could be of great aid to Hitler in meeting an allied invasion from across North Africa.

The Toulon coast is particularly rugged and forbidding; the harbor is surrounded by high elevations, bristling with great shore batteries. Deep water in several ship basins run five miles inland.

From its sprawling yards have been launched some of the finest battleships in the French navy. Its shops made it the prewar repair center of the French fleet.

BRITISH PUBLISHER DIES

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Nov. 27 — Sir Charles Hyde, Birmingham newspaper publisher, philanthropist and owner and breeder of racehorses, died yesterday at his home in Berkswell, Warwickshire. He was 66.

BOY, 7, KILLS SISTER WHEN SHE TATTLES

3 Other Ohioans Lose Lives in Shootings.

By The Associated Press

TOLEDO, O., Nov. 27 — Seven-year-old Charles Ibbotson, who sheriff's deputies said shot and killed his sister Rita, 10, after she tattled on him, was held for juvenile authorities today.

Deputies William Farley and Edward Stipes reported that Charles' brothers and sisters gave them this account of the Thanksgiving day shooting in the family's shack-home near here.

Charles was "mad at Rita" because she had informed her father of a wrongdoing by her brother. A few minutes after their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ibbotson, left home to drive into Toledo, Charles pointed his father's .22 caliber rifle at his sister's head, said "good-bye Rita" and pulled the trigger.

The deputies, called to the scene by a neighbor, took Charles and three other Ibbotson children, Lois 11, Kenneth, 5; and Jo Ann 4, to the child study institute and removed a 11-month-old girl to a hospital. They said the shack was in disorder and had no heat. Deputies said the children's father sold junk for a living.

Three other persons were killed in Thanksgiving day shootings of residents in Ohio.

William C. Conkle, 42, a Pennsylvania railroad engineer, was slain by two boys who then looted his pockets, Columbus police reported. Detective Chief Leo L. Pallos said robbery obviously was the motive.

FRENCH FLEET

and army forces and had placed Field Marshal Gerd Von Rundstedt in supreme command in France.

The broadcast quoted Hitler's letter to old Marshal Philippe Petain as saying:

"On Nov. 12, 1942, orders were given by French authorities to the defenses at Toulon not to open fire in the event of an Anglo-American landing in this town.

"Existence of this order has been proved. I have given orders that all naval and army units of French forces be immediately demobilized.

Rundstedt In Charge

"Marshal Von Rundstedt will be in charge of all measures now deemed necessary and will take all decisions in French territory."

The communique said German and Italian troops "nipped in the bud" the resistance of elements instigated by Anglo-Saxon influence which flared up at isolated points and in a few hours carried out their allotted tasks.

"Part of the French fleet has scuttled itself in spite of the counter-order of the French (Vichy) government."

DNB, the official German news agency, said Hitler himself gave the order which sent German troops marching into the base last night.

A German communique said the coup was effected "to protect this region against further violation by the British and American aggressors" following the Anglo-American offensive in North Africa.

Toulon lies across the Mediterranean from Tunisia, where U. S. Army and British troops were now driving a wedge between axis-held Tunis and Bizerte.

The French were previously reported to have declared they would defend the base against "all aggression" and Hitler himself had set Toulon aside as a special unoccupied zone when the German army swept into the former free part of France on Nov. 11.

The new move, violating still another of Hitler's pledges, apparently meant that Germany was either preparing to seize powerful remnants of the fleet at Toulon or mistrusted the French.

Nazi Communique

The German high command in Berlin announced today in a communique:

After attacks by British and American forces on the French Colonial empire German and Italian troops have marched into the remainder of unoccupied France in order together with French armed forces to protect this region against further violation by the British and American aggressors.

After the undertaking, on their word of honor, by French troops and commanders of the fleet to work with their units within the framework of the common defense, the French army, by the fuehrer's wish, was not only left untouched but was partly strengthened and equipped, and particularly the sector of Toulon, with the French Mediterranean fleet, was left to French defense.

In the meantime, breaches of their word of honor and attempts at escape by high French officers have become frequent.

It has likewise been ascertained that systematic instigation of the French army, which was ready to 'collaborate, by Anglo-Saxon influences continued to spread still further and in the last few days reached the fleet at Toulon.

It was in realization of the fact that this political cleft in the French army, endangering the safety of the German troops of occupation and undermining the authorities of the French government, that the fuehrer and the duce last night gave the order to occupy the port of Toulon to prevent the French Mediterranean fleet from putting to sea as planned and to demobilize unsure contingents of the French army.

German and Italian troops followed this order instantaneously and nipped in the bud the resistance of elements instigated by Anglo-Saxon influence which flared up at isolated points and in a few hours carried out their allotted tasks.

The town and port of Toulon have been in the hands of our troops since early morning.

Part of the French fleet has scuttled itself in spite of the counter-order of the French government.

The demobilization of the dissolved French units will shortly be carried out.

(End communique).

At Least 12 Wounded in Three Hour Fight.

By The Associated Press

PHOENIX, Ariz., Nov. 27—Two persons were killed and at least 12 wounded early today in a three hour gun battle between Negro soldiers and military and civilian police.

Police Chief Don Steward said that he had a man "shot out from either side of me" during the melee.

The riot, which Steward said started when a Negro military policeman attempted to arrest a recalcitrant, brought more than 100 military and civilian police officers to the scene and 28 arrests were placed under army control. Steward emphasized that it was entirely a Negro affair.

The dead:

The trouble, the police department reported, started when a military policeman shot a Negro soldier. Officers said companions of the wounded soldier returned with Garand rifles and other army equipment.

Among the casualties was a reporter from the Arizona Republic who reported one of his shoes was shot off.

First Deed Filed For Tract in Morrow Co.

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD, Nov. 27— County Recorder Karl Blake this week helped in clearing the title to a North Bloomfield township tract of land belonging to Jacob Seif. Mr. Seif brought in deeds for his property that were granted in 1830 but had never been recorded. The original deeds were made out to John W. Shrock, George Hel, and Adam Werg, for different parts of the farm that now belong to Seif. One of the owners, Adam Werg, had sold his property to Mr. Seif but this deed was never recorded until this time.

The records were on parchment and were issued when Andrew Jackson was president. There are 110 acres of land in the Seif farm.

CLANCY'S been the gate-keeper here at the plant about as long as I can remember. Swell guy too—and usually very pleasant. That's why I took notice when he looked sort of glum.

"What's the matter, Clancy?" I says. "You don't look so perky today!"

"And for good reason," he says, "my breakfast was nothin' to shout about—in spite of the fact I made it myself. You see, the mornin's I check in the early shift I wouldn't be askin' Mary to be gettin' up at five o'clock. But I guess I'm not the cook I thought I was. I can't even make a good piece o' toast."

I sort of laughed and said, "Why sure you can. What you need is the right start. Just have Mary get you some Omar Bread and you can't miss making good toast. Omar is always good eating and it makes the swellest toast—crisp on the outside and fluffy and tasty inside. With good butter, it's—"

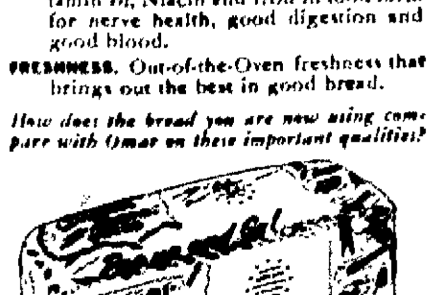

That's as far as I got when Clancy yelled, "Be off with ye! And quit plaguin' a hungry man!"

I didn't get to tell him Omar toast makes the kind of breakfast that'll stick to your ribs. But if he took my advice, he's probably found that out for himself. I guess he did, too. See him smilin' today?

Coach Brown's O.S.U. "Kids" Ready To Clash with Iowa Seahawks Saturda

Buckeyes Feel Their Speed and Passing Attack Will Give Them Chance To Beat All-Star Rivals.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 27—Again bobs up that perennial question: Can a good college team of comparative youngsters beat an outstanding all-star squad of seasoned veterans?

Ohio State, newly crowned Western Conference champion, and the Iowa Seahawks, who have lost to only one college eleven (Notre Dame 28-0), will provide the answer tomorrow before about 40,000 fans in Ohio stadium.

The Ohio gridders were confident that their speed and newly found passing attack gave them a chance against the former collegiate and professional stars coached by Lt. Col Bernie Bierman, erstwhile mentor of powerful Minnesota teams.

Colonel Bierman's first two squads are composed entirely of officers at the Navy pre-flight school. They range in age from 21 to 30 and only nine of the 29 squad members are under six feet. Their line will average better than 215 pounds.

The Ohio "kids," as Coach Paul Brown calls his boys, will be outweighed 20 to 25 pounds on the line. Only three of the Buck starters are over six feet.

In the backfield, the two teams stack up about even.

Ohio's big triple-threat star, Paul Sarringhaus of Hamilton, will be in shape to oppose the Seahawks despite a broken nose suffered in the Michigan game. He will wear a special headgear.

The Ohio lineup will be the same that faced Michigan, but sub halfback Tommy James of Massillon, an alternate for Sarringhaus, may see some action. He was injured against Illinois but his lame shoulder has responded to treatment rapidly.

Ohio State planned a routine limbering up drill today, but the Seahawks won't reach town in time for a practice.

GREAT LAKES SCORES 6TH STRAIGHT SHUTOUT

Bruce Smith Racks 23 Points as Sailors Halt Wildcats.

By The Associated Press

EVANSTON, Ill., Nov. 27—The Great Lakes Bluejackets unleashed their greatest scoring flurry of the season yesterday to wallop Northwestern, 48 to 0, for their sixth straight shutout victory.

Northwestern, ending its season with only one triumph in 10 games, went down to one of its worst defeats in history before a slim crowd of 18,500, as the sailors struck for two touchdowns in each the first, third and fourth periods and one in the second.

Bruce Smith, long a Northwestern problem while at Minnesota, returned to haunt the Wildcats further. He scored 23 points, which included three touchdowns, and was never in better form.

Former NCO Star in Stellar Role As Miami Loses 21-12

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 27 — If Miami Redskins could have given Bob Lauble, their freshman fullback from Shelby, a little help their night have pulled the Ohio football upset of the year yesterday.

Lauble scored two touchdowns to keep Miami in its Thanksgiving day ball game with Cincinnati until the Bearcats pulled into a safe lead in the final period to win 21 to 12, Cincinnati thereby annexed the all-state collegiate football leadership.

Five games completed the Ohio football season except for Saturday's contest between the Iowa Seahawks and Ohio State, which doesn't figure in the state standings.

Western Rererve, bounding back from its upset at the hands of Ohio Wesleyan, trounced Case 25 to 0 to win the greater Cleveland Big Four championship.

Dayton's Flyers, with losses only to Tennessee and Cincinnati, shut out Ohio university, 20 to 0.

Akron and John Carroll battled to a scoreless tie, but it was a moral victory for the hapless Zippers who haven't won a game.

Ohio Northern held the 1942 championship of the Ohio conference, which ended its season last Saturday.

Pattern Grid Tactics After Military "Wheel"

By The Associated Press

HARTSVILLE, S. C. — The Hartsville High school football team is employing gridiron tactics patterned after the military "wheel."

The players form a ring tangent to the line of scrimmage, start circling, come to the required one-second stop, snap the ball, then pick up wheeling again with the ball carrier swinging wide off the rim in a snap-the-whip fashion while bewildered opponents gawk.

The play scored as Hartsville beat near-by Darlington.

GOVERNMENT RULES DWARF ARMY-NAVY GAME THIS YEAR

Only Residents of Annapolis Permitted To Buy Tickets.

By The Associated Press

ANNAPOLIS, Md. They're unfolding the vest pocket edition of the Army-Navy football game in the Middies' compact pill park here Saturday, and if Army finishes on top—as it figures to do—the Cadets can thank the Navy for handing it to them on a platter.

For, if it hadn't been for several Navy gold-brands, who wanted the game to be played, there just wouldn't have been any Army-Navy game.

Big Celebrations Out

What's more, if football continues during the war, there'll be no more service extravaganzas as the boys and gals have known them in the past, with all the rah-rah stuff, the hullabaloo of marching battalions and military bands, and the crowds of 100,000 or so sitting in. Instead, it will be run just like any other football game.

It will be a home-and-home affair for the duration, as plans now stand, with West Point playing host to the 1943 renewal before a crowd similar to the 15,000 or so residents of Annapolis, who are the only fans permitted to buy tickets for Saturday's shindig.

All this was learned from a source close to the Navy, along with the fact that before the President ordered this year's Army-Navy game transplanted from Philadelphia's Municipal stadium to the naval academy's field, it had been wiped off the slate entirely. The war department, it was learned, had definitely turned thumbs down on playing the tussle at all this year, principally because of the transportation problems involved and because of the rubber and gasoline that have been wasted.

Navy Steps In

That's where the Navy men stepped in. Now, they must have known, from the way Coach Red Blair had the Army guys rolling, that the Cadets figured to mow down the Middies this time. Yet, in spite of it all, the Navy biggies went all out in their argument to have the game played, regardless of consequences.

Several of them went to Washington to lay lay their cause before the top authorities.

Well, they put up a convincing case before the Judge and jury. Anyway, President Roosevelt gave it his blessing.

SEMI-PRO BASEBALL MAY EXPAND IN 1943

Expect Increase if Minor Leagues Fold.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO—Ray Dumont, president of the National Semi-Pro Baseball Congress, says that the 1943 semi-pro program may be increased if many minor leagues are unable to operate next year.

"It is our hope and belief that minor league baseball will survive the war period," he declared. "However, if many of the leagues are unable to operate in 1943, the semi-pros will increase the scope of the national program to permit professionals to continue to play."

Dumont said directors of the semi-pro congress would meet in Chicago next week at the same time as the major league sessions.

Ralph Guldahl To Quit Pro Golf After Miami Open; Will Take War Plant Job

Former National Open King Now Regaining Championship Form.

By The Associated Press

MIAMI, Fla. — Big Ralph Guldahl hopes to pocket part of the $5,000 purse for the Miami open tournament next week, then he's checking golf in favor of war work.

"I'm not going to be idle," vowed the two-time National Open champion, expressing keen disappointment over cancellation of the usual winter round of resort competition.

"I've sold my home here, and as soon as the Open is over I'll go to California and get into some kind of war work."

Guldahl

There's no longer a living in golf, he lamented, with few tournament prizes to shoot for and the big name professionals dropped for the duration from sporting goods company payrolls.

"I had thought of making a connection with a club in Denver or somewhere else," he added, "but you have to make a heavy investment in equipment, and I wouldn't take a chance because club and ball sales are off 50 per cent now and you'll have a hard time getting balls by next summer."

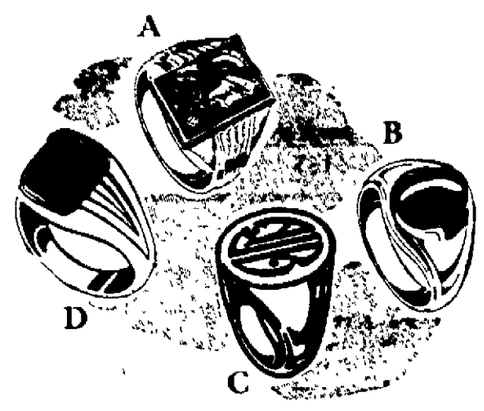

The tournament suspension comes at a time when Guldahl is showing signs of regaining the form which gave him the open title in 1938 and 1939. His game fell off badly, and he has not won an important tournament since 1940.

"I'm using my old, compact swing again," he explained. "My whole game went to pieces when I opened up my stance and tried to hit my drives as long as the Sneads, the Hogans and the Littles.

"Golf is a long hitter's game, especially in those California winter tournaments on courses where your ball sinks into the soft fairways and there's no roll to your shots.

"I tried to keep up, and it ruined the rest of my game. But I've thrown out that new swing and gone back to my old one. It's compact, and I'm straight with it."

NOTRE DAME WILL SETTLE FOR POINT IN GAME SATURDAY

Frank Leahy Says Irish in for Battle with Southern Cal.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO — Notre Dame's Frank Leahy says he will settle for a one point victory over the Trojans of Southern California in their inter-sectional football clash Saturday.

Leahy's remark came as the Irish squad of 35 players stepped off here enroute to Los Angeles, their 1942 acquired "T" formation subjected, for the next few days at least, to another "T" development—wartime travel.

Transportation Woes

But even a train schedule conflict that found the gridders still eating as their train furred and huffed to pull out, failed to disturb Leahy as much as scout reports on Southern California.

The Irish made the train as these remarks trailed from Leahy:

"Our scouts say Southern California has improved from week to week. Right now it's probably the best team on the coast .. We know it has speed and passing ....And that Mickey McCardle is good at both.

"We look for a close game. One point might decide it .. Maybe a touchdown ...I'll settle for a point."

Leahy said his squad came through the Northwestern game, one of the most bruising of the season, in fairly good shape and that Dick Creevy, who distinguished himself in the Army game and continued to do so against Michigan and Northwestern, again would start at right half.

Strong Pass Attack

Other choice scoring threats include Angelo Bertelli and his rifle like passing and the hard running of sophomore fullback Corwin Clatt, who picked up 149 yards in 23 tries last week.

Three regulars held out of the Northwestern game because of injuries were expected to be available Saturday. They are Center Walt Ziemba, Tackle Lou Rymkus, and Halfback Pete Ashbaugh, speelster of the Irish backfield.

Notre Dame held morning and afternoon workout at El Paso, Tex., yesterday and arrived at Pasadena, Calif., today, and will remain there until game time tomorrow.

Suggests "Coal Bowl" Game for Birmingham

By The Associated Press

NEW ORLEANS—Sports Editor Bill Keefe of the Times-Picayune proposes a "coal bowl" football game in Birmingham, matching Auburn and Alabama, state rivals.

The team severed athletic relations in 1907 following a bitter 6-6 gridiron tie.

"Check the hatchets and match the teams the Saturday after their season closes," suggests Keefe. "Even the Hatfields and the McCoys made up. Why not those collegians, especially at a time like this?"

Bowl Contestants for Jan. 1 Games Keep Fans Guessin

Few Games Saturday To Be Figured in Before Fi Choices Can Be Made.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 27—Athletic directors and football coaches, whose players have received all the bumps and bruises while doubling, tripling records will get the pushing and shoving themselves this week as bowl promoters seek Jan. 1 combatants.

Only on the campus of Texas university will everything be serene. The Longhorn players voted to compete in the Cotton Bowl yesterday after polishing off Texas A. & M. 12 to 0, on a touchdown by Jackie Fields just 46 seconds before the game's end.

But at Tulsa university the athletes hurried right out after their 40 to 7 victory over Arkansas—their tenth without a tie or defeat—to post markers who would direct the mailing grapa messenger or personal emissary to the home of Henry Frnka.

William & Mary Hopeful

They were hopeful of it a bowl promoters convinced William & Mary college, the Indians downing Richmond yesterday, 10 to 0, to replace as the Southern conference champion.

Of course, much of the bowl business must be done until after Saturday's game which unbeaten Georgia Tech an important engagement Georgia and Boston college with a Holy Cross eleven doesn't believe the Eagles been voted the best team country.

That doesn't include Saturday meeting between Army and which annually would be largest bowl but this year been cut down to larger size by the President's ord

Texas' faculty still must prove the school's participation the Dallas bowl.

No announcement was made a possible Longhorn opponent though Missouri, which yesterday trimmed Kansas, 42 to 13, to retain the Big Six title. Tennessee Alabama and possibly Georgia have been mentioned.

Possible Boston Rival

One of the latter trio also may furnish opposition for Boston college in the Sugar Bowl.

Tulsa is another Sugar Bowl possibility and along with William & Mary and Penn State has received unofficial consideration for the Miami Orange Bowl affair.

Georgia Tech, if it downs Georgia, is supposed to have the inside track to the Rose Bowl. However, if Washington State defeats Washington Saturday it will mean a lot of blocking and tackling to remove the Cougars from the front rank.

Bradley May Have To Decide Whether Tribe Plays in '43

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Nov. 27 — Unless he finds a soothsayer with a good grip on the sports pulse to give him the answer, it looks as if President Alva Bradley of the Cleveland Indians would have to make his own decision whether the Tribe plays baseball-as-usual next season.

Two days ago Bradley, doubtful that the fans want the game in wartime, put out a "feeler" for a public expression on the question, declaring he'd "rather not open" the ball park next spring if the "wolves" were going to howl about players not being in the armed services.

Since then, only two persons bothered to call him about the matter. Both said the game should go on.

A random sampling of public opinion showed it divided. Seven of a dozen persons believed baseball should be played next season, if only to give civilians "a chance to blow off steam." Four said they "don't care" and one definitely was opposed to it.

The "pros" agreed with Bradley's expressed conviction that only married men with children should be allowed to play.

BAUGH, ISBELL VIE FOR PASSING HONORS

1941 Champ Trails Redskin Ace by Small Margin.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO — Cecil Isbell, the Green Bay passing expert, may beat out Washington's Sammy Baugh yet in their duel for passing honors in the National football league.

Isbell, 1941 champion, fell behind last week, but today's figures showed he had bounced back and was tied with Baugh for the leadership. Isbell led in the number of completions (125 to Baugh's 119), but the situation was reversed in percentage of completions with Baugh leading with .573 and Isbell next with .551.

Isbell, however, still has two games to play and Baugh only one. Isbell also has the better of his rival in yards gained by passing (1711 to 1395) and in touchdown passes, (20 to 14).

Don Hutson, Isbell's favorite receiver, last week ran his catches for the season to 71, 13 more than the record he held jointly with Don Looney of Pittsburgh.

Merlyn Condit of Brooklyn whittled away at Bill Dudley's lead in the ball carrying race, but the Pittsburgh back still held a 52 yard advantage.

No Second String Stuff for Lyons, Major League Vet

Wide World Features

VINTON, LA.—It took a global war to knock lemon-thatched Ted Lyons out of the box, but with two decades of big league pitching behind him, he refuses to sing the blues.

"I joined the marines," he explains his recent enlistment "because I wanted to be with a bunch of starters. I didn't want a job relief pitching. But if this war isn't over in two years, I guess my chances for a baseball comeback are shot.

"Don't get me wrong," he smiles. "Of course, I'll try to salvage the old flipper. You pitch 20 seasons in the majors and it gets to be a habit."

The 42-year-old Chisox pitcher is currently harassing the fish and ducks around Vinton, awaiting orders to report at an officers training school.

Ted believes there's only one way to taper off his fantastic record for sustained service coaching pitchers. Chicago pitchers. He broke in with the Sox back in July of 1923.

He attributes his durability to (1) a good pitching machine (2) overnight diets (3) in wooden... (4) ... winters of legging it through Louisiana marshlands.

Commando Tennis Is Tops as Conditioner

By The Associated Press

BOISE, Idaho — Soldiers at Gowen Field think their invention, commando tennis, tops as a conditioner.

A tennis ball is tied to a rope and dropped from the ceiling. The soldiers, armed with ping pong paddles, try to knock the ball into each other's face.

What makes the game tough? Each player must wear full field equipment, including helmet, gas mask, pack and rifle, while flailing away at the ball.

Three Wooster Athletes in College Who's Who

WOOSTER, O.—Three of the eight men students at the College of Wooster, included in the 1943 Who's Who in American Colleges, are athletes. They are Johnny Clay of Canal Fulton, quarterback in football and president of the student senate; Harry Eicher of Lakewood, end in football and center in basketball, and Rich Spoolli of New Kensington, Pa., guard and captain in basketball.

FAIL TO USE FROSH

WOOSTER, O.—Although Ohio conference rules permit the use of freshmen this season, the Wooster Scots have played their entire conference schedule of eight games without using a yearling.

GRAINS ADVANCE, THEN BACK DOWN

CHICAGO, Nov. 27 — After advancing fractions to more than a cent a bushel, with rye in the lead, grain prices today backed down late in the session as a result of liquidation of December contracts, which become deliverable next Tuesday. In some cases small losses were posted.

The market's early strength reflected mill demand for wheat, with a substantial quantity sold for eastern shipment. Reports of additional chain bakery inquiry for flour and short covering in the rye pit, which brokers said may have been stimulated by hope that exports may be possible as a result of war developments, also caused early strength.

JAP SNIPERS IN ACTION

MARKET SHOWS LITTLE CHANGE

Buying on Selective Basis Continues After Thanksgiving Holiday.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 27 — Wall Streeters returned from their holiday festivities with about the same market opinions as they had before and the result was that today's stock buying continued on a selective basis.

Bonds and commodities were narrow.

Stocks tilting forward included J. I. Case, Montgomery Ward, American Telephone, Chrysler, American Airlines, Eastern Air Lines and Standard Oil (NJ). Hesitant were Chesapeake & Ohio, U. S. Rubber, Bethlehem, and Douglas Aircraft.

One feature of the day's performance on the big board was the sale of 10 shares of Mahoning Coal Railroad common at $300 a share, first appearance of this stranger since 1935 when there was a transaction at $515 a share. In the seven years, however, dividends amounting to $229 a share have been paid. Deducting the interim disbursements, today's trade actually gave the stock a net gain over its 1935 quotation of $14 a share.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

"YOU are pleased to jest, Georges," I said, hoping that the fugitive young King of Trees, sitting there in his bizarre disguise, would discern my distaste for the admiring warmth with which he was speaking of Mary.

Was his interest in Olina only that of chivalry toward an old friend, and his attraction to Mary functioning again?

"I was jesting, of course," he said, "but I really am relieved to learn Mary isn't interested in that Redfield person. He is most objectionable. You say your father is trying to find out things about him, and that Mary is helping him. That must mean—"

"That he is more than objectionable," I said grimly. "Yes, it does. I'll tell you more about it later.

"Olina received a queer fan letter a few days ago," I said, "together with a water color. The letter said the writer would send another containing a message for her to insert in the personal column of the New York——. If she did read the second letter came a little while ago. The personal read 'Amol P. O' W...'. We deciphered the meaning of the printing. I thought of you. Did you read them to her, Georges?"

"No other," he returned. "I am the guilty one. But tell me—did Olina share your keenness of insight?"

"She agreed with me," I told him. "But you must be in America, and must be the sender of the message."

"Did she insert the personal?" he asked. "I have not looked at a paper today."

"No," I replied. "My father insisted on taking charge of inserting the personal—why I do not know—and has not yet put it in."

"Your father—is interested in my movements?" he asked.

"Very much interested," I answered. "In fact, if you are willing, he will provide sanctuary for you where you will be safe from any danger which threatens you."

"Impossible," he said. "I am safe nowhere."

"I think you under-estimate my father's power and resourcefulness," I told him. "For instance, he knew of the danger surrounding Olina and her mother even before you told me of it, and had made arrangements to have them guarded. And while he has not told me so, I am sure he knows you are in America, and that you in disguise are talking with me now.

"My father has a hideaway—he is a high government official—where you can stay indefinitely and be perfectly safe. And from something my father dropped, I am sure you can be useful to him."

"I know now," he said, "what it means to be moved from hell to heaven. When may I go to see him?"

"As soon as you wish," I said. "He is in the next suite waiting for you."

* * *

GEORGES looked at me intently.

"Am I keeping him waiting?" he asked. "If so, I will go to him at once, although I wanted to tell my story first to you."

"And so you shall," I assured him. "No, you are not keeping him. He has many things to do, and wants you to take all the time you need talking to me."

I did not tell him that my father, seated close to the other side of a camouflaged door, was listening to every word we said.

"I am glad," he said, "for there are many things I want to tell you and ask you. First, did Olina or Mary recognize me in the cafe, as you must have done?"

"I did not recognize you at once," I answered, "and neither of the girls had any idea then of your identity. I do not know that Mary has given the matter any thought, but while Olina has said nothing to me I have an intuition that she would not be surprised to know that you were the apparently old man she saw in the cafe."

"Poor child!" he said irrelevantly, then, "I hope I shan't tire you with my story."

"Don't be silly!" I said. "Make your story as long as you wish. I told you to come here so that I could hear it."

"It begins with the revolution in Trees," he said, "when the totalitarians seized the government. You see, they especially hated me, because I always have been on the side of the oppressed peasants in our country, who really love me. The totalitarian leaders were determined that I should not live to lead the peasants out of their bondage, for which I had resolved to give up my throne. I never wanted to be a king anyway."

There was something boyish, almost mirthful, in his voice, and my heart warmed to the reckless, chivalrous youth.

How Georges Escaped

"They nearly did for me," he went on. "They hauled me out of the palace, almost literally by the neck. Why they did not kill me then I have no idea. Perhaps they were saving me to use as a bargaining point in dealing with some faction in the government.

"They kept me prisoner in a lonely house near the coast, and no one else knew what had become of me."

"All the world was wondering about you," I said, "and finally decided you must have been killed."

"I was saved," he explained, "only because one of my guards had once been a gamekeeper in the palace park. I had often befriended him and once saved his life. He gave no sign that he recognized me, and treated me with unusual harshness, although he was plotting my escape. When the time was ripe, he engineered my getaway on a fishing boat.

"He was sure that he would not be suspected, but I have worried about him ever since. He would have hated me in the present for what I had done but ... he knew he would meet his death as I fear he did."

"But you do not know that, Georges," I said, "so why brood over it?"

"You are right, of course," he said, "and I'll try not to think of it any more. But Henri's face comes often before me, in my waking hours and in my dreams."

"I know, dear boy," I told him, "but you can do him no good by dwelling upon such memories. Tell me instead of your escape in the fishing boat. It must have been thrilling," I added, hoping to turn his mind from thought of his faithful Henri.

Solution Of Yesterday's Puzzle

Blondie — By Chic Young

In order to maintain continuity in "Tim Tyler" and "Flash Gordon" both Thursday and today's strips appear today. To provide space "Bringing Up Father" and "Tillie the Toiler" are omitted. Publication of both will be resumed tomorrow. Double use of "Tim Tyler" and "Flash Gordon" is necessitated by the Thanksgiving holiday when no Star was published. The same condition applies to "The Gumps," two strips of which appear on the classified page today.
